k. Description of Request: The licensee requests approval to construct and operate a 3,000 cubic feet per second (cfs) synchronous flow bypass system and to revise flow reduction and fluctuation criteria under article 33(d) of the license for the Narrows II development. Currently, the licensee is only capable of bypassing 650 cfs through the plant, which has a capacity of 3,400 cfs under full generation load. The proposed bypass system will allow the licensee, especially during emergency shutdown periods, to be able to minimize flow fluctuations downstream. The licensee has consulted with the California Department of Fish and Game, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service and the National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration's National Marine Fisheries Service (NOAA Fisheries). The NOAA Fisheries, in anticipation of the licensee's proposal to construct the bypass system, has issued a preliminary Biological Opinion to protect the Central Valley steelhead and spring-run Chinook salmon that are listed as threatened species under the Endangered Species Act and occur downstream of the project.

Affected entities: Entities potentially affected by this action are those which generate, treat and store hazardous waste. Examples include hazardous waste incinerators, boilers, cement kilns and lightweight aggregate kilns that burn hazardous waste.

Title: RCRA Reporting and Recordkeeping Requirements for Boilers and Industrial Furnaces Burning Hazardous Waste.

Abstract: EPA regulates the burning of hazardous waste by several source categories of hazardous waste combustors under 40 CFR parts 63, 261, 264 thru 266 and part 270. The standards to control emissions of hazardous air pollutants from boilers and industrial furnaces were promulgated under Resource Conservation and Recovery Act (RCRA) on February 21, 1991 (see 56 FR 7208) and are codified in 40 CFR parts 266 and 270. The general facility and comparable/syngas fuel standards, and financial requirements are covered in 40 CFR parts 261, 264 and 265. Revised standards to control emissions of hazardous air pollutants from incinerators, cement kilns and lightweight aggregate kilns that burn hazardous wastes were promulgated on September 30, 1999, under the joint authority of RCRA and Clean Air Act (CAA). See 64 FR 52828. The EPA ICR #1773.06 relating to the CAA provisions (codified in 40 CFR part 63) has been published separately under OMB Control #2050-0171. The EPA ICR #1361.09 pertaining to RCRA provisions of the rule was approved under OMB Control #2050-0073, expires on December 31, 2005, and is being renewed now under this action.

The emission standards of the September 30, 1999 rule created maximum achievable control technology (MACT) based standards for hazardous air pollutant emissions under CAA, assuring that combustion of hazardous waste in these devices is properly controlled, while the RCRA provisions satisfied EPA's mandate to ensure that hazardous waste combustion is conducted in a manner protective of human health and the environment. Thus, we have consolidated regulatory control of hazardous waste combustion into a single set of regulations, thereby minimizing the potential for conflicting or duplicate federal requirements and burden on the regulated community.

The information collection required under this ICR is mandatory for the regulated sources, as it is essential to properly enforce the emission limitation requirements of the rule and will be used to further the proper performance of the functions of EPA. EPA believes that if the minimum requirements specified under the regulations are not met, EPA will not fulfill its Congressional mandate to protect public health and the environment. EPA, however, has made extensive efforts to integrate the monitoring, compliance testing and recordkeeping requirements of the CAA and RCRA, so that the facilities are able to avoid the burden of duplicate and unnecessary submissions. We also ensure, to the fullest extent by law, the confidentiality of the submitted information. EPA may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. The OMB control numbers for EPA's regulations are listed in 40 CFR part 9 and 48 CFR chapter 15.

The EPA would like to solicit comments to:

(i) Evaluate whether the proposed collections of information are necessary for the proper performance of the functions of the Agency, including whether the information will have practical utility;

(ii) Evaluate the accuracy of the Agency's estimates of the burdens for reporting and recordkeeping requirements of the proposed collections of information;

(iii) Enhance the quality, utility, and clarity of the information to be collected; and,

(iv) Minimize the burden of the collections of information on those who are to respond, including through the use of appropriate automated or electronic collection technologies or other forms of information technology, e.g., permitting electronic submission of responses.

Burden Statement: The total average annual hourly burden for this ICR is estimated to be 307,949 hours for 1969 responses, which is roughly 156 hours per response. The total annual cost of this ICR is estimated to be $26,353,000, which represents $8,548,000 for capital/startup costs, and $17,805,000 for operation and maintenance costs.

Burden means the total time, effort, or financial resources expended by persons to generate, maintain, retain, or disclose or provide information to or for a Federal agency. This includes the time needed to review instructions; develop, acquire, install, and utilize technology and systems for the purposes of collecting, validating, and verifying information, processing and maintaining information, and disclosing and providing information; adjust the existing ways to comply with any previously applicable instructions and requirements; train personnel to be able to respond to a collection of information; search data sources; complete and review the collection of information; and transmit or otherwise disclose the information.

Dated: April 14, 2005.

Maria Parisi Vickers,

Acting Director, Office of Solid Waste.
