PJM Industrial Customer Coalition, Complainant v. PJM Interconnection, L.L.C. and American Electric Power Service Corporation, Respondents; Notice Requiring Reply

May 26, 2005.

On April 15, 2005, PJM Industrial Customer Coalition (PJMICC) filed a complaint requesting that the Commission direct PJM Interconnection, L.L.C. (PJM) and American Electric Power Service Corporation (AEP) to allow certain PJMICC members located within the AEP service territory to participate in PJM's demand response programs. In its answer to the complaint, AEP asserts that, under PJM's tariff, PJMICC members may be prohibited from participating in PJM's demand response program in AEP's service territory, because relevant state retail tariffs and certain contractual obligations preclude such participation. In its answer, PJM asserts that its tariff recognizes that state or contractual requirements may preclude participation in PJM's demand response programs.

In order to further elucidate the issues raised in AEP's and PJM's answer, notice is hereby given that PJMICC must file a reply to the answers on or before June 10, 2005.

Title: Baseline Standards and Best Management Practices for the Coal Mining Point Source Category—Coal Remining Subcategory and Western Alkaline Coal Mining Subcategory (Renewal)

Abstract: This ICR presents estimates of the burden and costs to the regulated community (i.e., coal remining sites and western alkaline surface coal mining sites) and NPDES permit control authorities for data collection and record keeping associated with modeling, Best Management Practice (BMP) implementation, baseline monitoring, and performance monitoring requirements of the Coal Mining Point Source—Coal Remining Subcategory and Western Alkaline Coal Mining Subcategory Effluent Limitations Guidelines (40 CFR 434.70 and 434.80).

Coal remining is the mining of surface mine lands, underground mine lands, and coal refuse piles that have been previously mined and abandoned. Acid mine drainage from abandoned coal mines is a significant problem in Appalachia, with approximately 1.1 million acres of abandoned coal mine lands and over 9,700 miles of streams polluted by acid mine drainage.

During the remining process, acid forming materials are removed with the extraction of the coal, pollution abatement BMPs are implemented under applicable regulatory requirements, and the abandoned mine land is reclaimed. During remining, many of the problems associated with abandoned mine land, such as dangerous highwalls, vertical openings, and abandoned coal refuse piles can be corrected without using public funds.

The remining regulations include a requirement that the operator implement BMPs to demonstrate the potential to improve water quality. The site-specific BMPs will be incorporated into a pollution abatement plan. Data collection and record keeping requirements under this Subcategory will include baseline determination, annual monitoring and reporting for pre-existing discharges and a description of site-specific BMPs. In most cases, EPA believes that the BMP requirements for the pollution abatement plan will be satisfied by an approved SMCRA plan.

Western alkaline coal mines include surface and underground mining operations located in the interior western United States. EPA estimates that 46 mine sites will be affected by this subcategory, representing 2% of the total number of U.S. coal mines, but accounting for 1/3 of U.S. coal production.

The subcategory establishes nonnumeric limitations on the amount of sediment that can be discharged from coal mine reclamation areas. In lieu of numeric standards, the mine operator must develop a site-specific sediment control plan for surface reclamation areas identifying BMP design, construction, and maintenance specifications and expected effectiveness. The operator will be required to demonstrate, using models accepted by the regulatory authority, that implementation of the BMPs will ensure that average annual sediment levels in drainage from reclamation areas would not exceed predicted natural background levels of sediment discharges at that site. Data collection and record keeping requirements under this Subcategory will include a description of site-specific sediment control BMPs and watershed model results. EPA believes that plans developed to comply with SMCRA requirements will usually fulfill the EPA requirements for sediment control plans.

EPA does not expect that any confidential business information or trade secrets will be required from coal mining operators as part of this ICR. If information submitted in conjunction with this ICR were to contain confidential business information, the respondent has the authority to request that the information be treated as confidential business information. All data so designated will be handled by EPA pursuant to 40 CFR part 2. This information will be maintained according to procedures outlined in EPA's Security Manual Part III, Chapter 9, dated August 9, 1976. Pursuant to section 308(b) of the CWA, effluent data may not be treated as confidential.

An agency may not conduct or sponsor, and a person is not required to respond to, a collection of information unless it displays a currently valid OMB control number. The OMB control numbers for EPA's regulations in 40 CFR are listed in 40 CFR part 9 and are identified on the form and/or instrument, if applicable.

Burden Statement: The annual public reporting and recordkeeping burden for this collection of information is estimated to average 21 hours per response for the coal remining sites and 405 hours annually for the ten state NPDES permitting authorities. No additional burden is projected for the 46 western alkaline coal mining sites. Burden means the total time, effort, or financial resources expended by persons to generate, maintain, retain, or disclose or provide information to or for a Federal agency. This includes the time needed to review instructions; develop, acquire, install, and utilize technology and systems for the purposes of collecting, validating, and verifying information, processing and maintaining information, and disclosing and providing information; adjust the existing ways to comply with any previously applicable instructions and requirements; train personnel to be able to respond to a collection of information; search data sources; complete and review the collection of information; and transmit or otherwise disclose the information.

Respondents/Affected Entities: Entities potentially affected by this action are coal remining sites with pre-existing discharges; western alkaline coal mining sites with sediment control; and NPDES permit control authorities.

Estimated Number of Respondents: 88.

Frequency of Response: varies (generally ranging between monthly and annually).

Estimated Total Annual Hour Burden: 5,685.

Estimated Total Annual Cost: $340,000, includes $0 annualized capital or O&M costs.

Changes in the Estimates: There is decrease in burden hours and responses currently identified in the OMB Inventory of Approved ICR Burdens due to an adjustment. The previous ICR had mistakenly used 3-year burden hours to calculate associated costs, this renewal

ICR corrects this error and reports the annual burden estimates.

Dated: May 18, 2005.

Director, Collection Strategies Division.
