DEPARTMENT OF HEALTH AND HUMAN SERVICES

Office of Inspector General

Program Exclusions: February 2006

AGENCY: Office of Inspector General, HHS.

ACTION: Notice of program exclusions.

During the month of February 2006, the HHS Office of Inspector General imposed exclusions in the cases set forth below. When an exclusions is imposed, no program payment is made to anyone for any items or services (other than an emergency item or service not provided in a hospital emergency room) furnished, ordered or prescribed by an excluded party under the Medicare, Medicaid, and all Federal Health Care programs. In addition, no program payment is made to any business or facility, e.g., a hospital, that submits bills for payment for items or services provided by an excluded party. Program beneficiaries remain free to decide for themselves whether they will continue to use the services of an excluded party even though no program payments will be made for items and services provided by that excluded party. The exclusions have national effect and also apply to all Executive Branch procurement and non-procurement programs and activities.

A signed Confidential Disclosure Agreement will be required to receive copies of the patent applications.

Use of CYP1B1*3 Genotyping To Predict Survival to Docetaxel Treatment in Androgen-Independent Prostate Cancer

William D. Figg et al. (NCI). U.S. Provisional Application No. 60/716,439 filed September 12, 2005 (HHS Reference No. E-307-2005/0-US-01).

Licensing Contact: Mojdeh Bahar; 301/435-2950; baharm@mail.nih.gov.

Androgen-independent prostate cancer (AIPC) remains the second leading cause of cancer death in men in developed nations, and it is estimated that one in six men will be diagnosed with prostate cancer. The use of docetaxel has been shown to prolong survival rate and improve the quality of life in patients suffering from AIPC.

Scientists at NIH have identified a genetic marker called CYP1B1*3 (4326C>G; L432V) that can predict survival in patients with prostate cancer prior to treatment with docetaxel. In a study of 25 patients suffering from AIPC, patients that were homozygous or heterozygous wild-type for the 4326C>G transition had an increased mean survival time after docetaxel treatment when compared to patients carrying the homozygous variant. These patients showed a survival rate of 15.3 months compared to 7.5 months for those homozygous with the variant CYP1B1*3.

This genetic marker (CYP1B1*3) can be measured in DNA obtained from a blood sample. This technology can be potentially used as a diagnostic tool to predict the patient's propensity to respond to docetaxel treatment when being treated for AIPC.

In addition to licensing, the technology is available for further development through collaborative research opportunities with the inventors.

Adoptive Immunotherapy With Enhanced T Lymphocyte Survival

Steven A. Rosenberg et al. (NCI). PCT Application No. PCT/US05/3640 filed October 7, 2005 (HHS Reference No. E-340-2004/2-PCT-01); U.S. Provisional Application No. 60/617,340 filed October 8, 2004 (HHS Reference No. E-340-2004/0-US-01). Licensing Contact: Michelle A. Booden; 301/451-7337; boodenm@mail.nih.gov.

Adoptive immunotherapy strategies have existed for several years now and many have proven to be highly successful in a limited subset of patients. This limited response rate among a diverse patient population may not be surprising, given the complexity of the immune system and the complicated evolution of a normal cell to an immune evading malignancy. A common observation amongst most patients that did not respond to adoptive therapy strategies is that the immune response to the cancer was not sustained.

A number of cytokines have been shown to sustain a T-cell response when administered systemically with autologous isolated T-cells. However, the systemic delivery of many cytokines, such as IL-2, will cause significant toxicity before the beneficial immunologic effects of the autologous T-cells can occur. This invention describes a method of transfecting isolated autologous T-Lymphocytes with endogenous cytokines, for example IL-7 and IL-15, to sustain an adoptive T-lymphocyte response without systemic toxicity. The invention also describes a method for improving expression of transfected cytokines via a codon optimized IL-15 vector. Applications of this technology beyond cancer include the potential use of cytokine expressing cells in treating
