Triazine Cumulative Risk Assessment;
Notice of Availability

AGENCY: Environmental Protection Agency (EPA).

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: This notice announces the availability of EPA's cumulative risk assessment for the chlorinated triazine group of pesticides and opens a public comment period on this document and other support documents. As required by the Food Quality Protection Act (FQPA), a cumulative risk assessment, which evaluates exposures based on a common mechanism of toxicity, was conducted to evaluate the risk from food, drinking water, and non-occupational exposure resulting from all registered uses of chlorinated triazine pesticides. The chlorinated triazine group includes the pesticides atrazine, simazine, and propazine, in addition to their three chlorinated degradates. Propazine, however, was not incorporated into the cumulative risk assessment because no dietary, drinking water, or residential human exposure to propazine is anticipated from any of the currently registered uses. The Agency is concurrently issuing for public comment the Reregistration Eligibility Decision (RED) for simazine and the Tolerance Reassessment Progress and Risk Management Decision (TRED) for propazine. See EPA-HQ-OPP-2005-0151 and EPA-HQ-OPP-2005-0496 in the Notices section of this issue of the Federal Register. A memo finalizing the Interim Reregistration Eligibility Decision for atrazine is being added to docket EPA-HQ-OPP-2003-0367.

DATES: Comments must be received on or before August 21, 2006.

ADDRESSES: Submit your comments, identified by docket identification (ID) number EPA-HQ-OPP-2005-0481, by one of the following methods:

II. Background

A. What Action is the Agency Taking?

EPA is making available the completed cumulative risk assessment for the chlorinated triazine pesticides. The Agency developed this risk assessment as part of its ongoing process for making pesticide reregistration eligibility and tolerance reassessment decisions. Through these programs, EPA is ensuring that pesticides meet current standards under the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide, and Rodenticide Act (FIFRA) and the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FFDCA), as amended by the FQPA.

Section 408(b)(2)(D)(v) of the FFDCA directs the Agency to consider available information on the cumulative risk from substances sharing a common mechanism of toxicity. In 2002 the Agency determined that the chlorinated triazine pesticides atrazine, simazine, and propazine, in addition to their three chlorinated degradates, share a common neuroendocrine mechanism of toxicity which results in both reproductive and developmental consequences. This determination can be found in the document entitled "The Grouping of a Series of Triazine Pesticides Based on a Common Mechanism of Toxicity" available at <http://www.epa.gov/oppsrrd1/cumulative/triazines/triazinestransmittalmemo.htm>.

The Agency has concluded that the cumulative risks associated with the chlorinated triazine pesticides are below the Agency's level of concern. While making final reregistration eligibility and tolerance reassessment decisions on individual chlorinated triazines, the Agency evaluated the cumulative risk posed by this group. Although individual risk assessments were conducted for each of the chlorinated triazine pesticides, propazine was not incorporated into the cumulative risk assessment because no dietary, drinking water, or residential human exposure to propazine is anticipated from any of the currently registered uses.

The Interim Reregistration Eligibility Decision previously issued for atrazine in docket OPP-2003-0072 (68 FR 9652, February 28, 2003) (FRL-7296-1) and revised in docket OPP-2003-0367 (68 FR 63085, November 7, 2003) (FRL-7334-9) is now considered final; the tolerance reassessment and reregistration eligibility process for atrazine is complete. EPA has determined that the established tolerances for atrazine meet the FFDCA safety standard and that no further risk mitigation is necessary as a result of the triazine cumulative risk assessment.

EPA is providing an opportunity, through this notice, for interested parties to provide comments and input on the Agency's completed cumulative risk assessment for the triazines. Such comments and input could address the Agency's risk assessment methodologies and assumptions as applied to this cumulative assessment. The Agency will consider all comments received, and make changes, if appropriate, to the triazine cumulative assessment.

EPA seeks to achieve environmental justice, the fair treatment and meaningful involvement of all people, regardless of race, color, national origin, or income, in the development, implementation, and enforcement of environmental laws, regulations, and policies. To help address potential environmental justice issues, the Agency seeks information on any groups or segments of the population who, as a result of their location, cultural practices, or other factors, may have atypical, unusually high exposure to chlorinated triazine pesticides, compared to the general population.

EPA is applying the principles of public participation to all pesticides undergoing reregistration and tolerance reassessment. The Agency's Pesticide Tolerance Reassessment and Reregistration; Public Participation Process, published in the Federal Register on May 14, 2004, (69 FR 26819) (FRL-7357-9) explains that in conducting these programs, EPA is tailoring its public participation process to be commensurate with the level of risk, extent of use, complexity of issues, and degree of public concern associated with each pesticide. Both atrazine and simazine have had extensive opportunities for public comment as part of their reregistration eligibility and tolerance reassessment process.

Comments should be limited to issues raised within the triazine risk assessment and associated documents. Failure to comment on any such issues as part of this opportunity will not limit a commenter's opportunity to participate in any later notice and comment processes on this matter. All comments should be submitted using the methods in ADDRESSES, and must be received by EPA on or before the closing date. Comments will become part of the Agency Docket for the triazine cumulative risk assessment. Comments received after the close of the comment period will be marked "late." EPA is not required to consider these late comments.

B. What is the Agency's Authority for Taking this Action?

Section 4(g)(2)(A) of FIFRA, as amended, requires the Administrator to make "a determination as to the eligibility for reregistration (i) for all active ingredients subject to reregistration under this section for which tolerances or exemptions from tolerances are required under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (21 U.S.C. 301 et seq.), not later than the last date for tolerance reassessment established under section 408(q)(1)(C) of that Act (21 U.S.C. 346a(q)(1)(C))"

Section 408(q) of the FFDCA, 21 U.S.C. 346a(q), requires EPA to review tolerances and exemptions for pesticide residues in effect as of August 2, 1996, to determine whether the tolerance or exemption meets the requirements of section 408(b)(2) or (c)(2) of FFDCA. This review is to be completed by August 3, 2006. A tolerance or exemption meets the requirements of section 408(b)(2) or (c)(2), respectively, if "the Administrator determines the pesticide chemical residue is safe", i.e., "that there is a reasonable certainty that no harm will result from aggregate exposure to the pesticide chemical residue, including all anticipated dietary exposures and all other exposures for which there is reliable information." 21 U.S.C. 346a(b)(2)(A), and (c)(2)(A). In making this safety finding, FFDCA requires the Administrator to consider, among other factors, "available information concerning the cumulative effects of such residues and other substances that have a common mechanism of toxicity" 21 U.S.C. 346a(b)(2)(D)(v), and (c)(2)(B).
