

survey was not conducted. The subject firm did not import designs and patterns for women's garments into the United States during the relevant period.

In the request for reconsideration the petitioner alleged that Tracy Evans transferred its U.S. operations to a foreign country. Furthermore, the petitioner referred to an article reporting a "problematic industrial trend of garment jobs being outsourced to foreign countries within the garment district in New York City."

When assessing eligibility for TAA, the Department exclusively considers production of articles like or directly competitive with the ones manufactured at the subject firm during the relevant period (one year prior to the date of the petition). The issue of a shift in production by the subject firm to a foreign country was addressed during the initial investigation. It was revealed that the subject firm did not shift production of designs and patterns for women's garments during the relevant period.

The petitioner did not supply facts not previously considered; nor provide additional documentation indicating that there was either (1) A mistake in the determination of facts not previously considered or (2) a misinterpretation of facts or of the law justifying reconsideration of the initial determination.

After careful review of the request for reconsideration, the Department determines that 29 CFR 90.18(c) has not been met.

Conclusion

After review of the application and investigative findings, I conclude that there has been no error or misinterpretation of the law or of the facts which would justify reconsideration of the Department of Labor's prior decision. Accordingly, the application is denied.
