

and over-the-counter (OTC) medications to stay healthy. Yet it is widely known that too many people incur preventable injury and even die from medication errors or misuse. Preventable injuries can result from a variety of sources, including informational errors (mistakes made in prescribing or using a medicine because of inadequate information); unintended, or accidental exposure; intentional drug misuse and abuse; and rarely because of manufacturing and/or distribution defects. The Institute of Medicine (IOM) estimates that 1.5 million preventable injuries, or adverse drug events, occur in the United States healthcare system each year,^{1,2} at a cost exceeding $4 billion annually. Additionally, incorrect use of OTC medications results in thousands of preventable injuries. Furthermore, unintended exposure to medications causes a significant number of injuries and deaths, mainly in children. Between 2003 and 2006 alone, more than 9,000 children were accidentally exposed to prescription opioid drugs.³

These potentially avoidable injuries and deaths represent our society's collective failure to adequately manage medication risks. Because the shortcomings in the healthcare system have been broadly acknowledged, FDA and many other healthcare stakeholders have been working hard to improve the way in which the nation's healthcare system manages medication risks. However, much more needs to be done, and coordinated cross-sector efforts, involving all stakeholders, would have the greatest impact.

To this end, FDA is launching the Safe Use Initiative, through which it will collaborate with stakeholders—including patients, consumers, caretakers, healthcare practitioners, pharmacists, healthcare systems, health insurers, drug manufacturers, and Federal agencies—to identify specific candidate cases associated with important, measurable amounts of preventable harm. In the coming months, FDA plans to develop, through extensive consultation with all interested public and private stakeholders, a general list of candidate cases for collaborative analysis and intervention. FDA also intends to work with federal partners to develop population-based national estimates of preventable harm from medications, categorized by drug, drug classes, and therapeutic situations. In addition to opening a docket to receive public input, FDA plans to hold a series of public meetings to gather broad public feedback as the candidate list is being developed. It is FDA's goal to implement a small number of interventions during the next 12 months.

For more information, see FDA's Safe Use Web page at <http://www.fda.gov/Drugs/DrugSafety/ucm187806.htm>.

II. Submission of Feedback on the Contents of This Docket

Interested parties may submit to the Division of Dockets Management (see ADDRESSES) electronic or written comments on this information. Submit a single copy of electronic comments or two paper copies of any mailed comments. Individuals may submit one paper copy. Comments should be identified with the docket number found in brackets in this document's heading. Received comments may be seen in the Division of Dockets Management between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Monday through Friday. FDA will accept electronic comments or submissions only at <http://www.regulations.gov>.
