Proposed Rule Stage

410. REGULATION Z—TRUTH IN LENDING ACT (DOCKET NUMBER: R-1366)

Legal Authority: 15 USC 1601 et seq

Abstract: The Federal Reserve proposed for comment amendments to Regulation Z (Truth in Lending) that would revise disclosure requirements for closed-end loans secured by real property or a dwelling. The proposed rules would require creditors to provide certain disclosures at application about risky loan features and adjustable-rate mortgages. Three days after application, consumers would receive disclosures summarizing key loan features including the annual percentage rate and finance charge, which would be revised to be a more comprehensive measure of the cost of credit. Consumers would receive a final disclosure of loan terms three days before loan consummation. Certain new periodic disclosures would be required after consummation. In addition, the proposal would prohibit certain payments to mortgage brokers and loan officers that are based on the loan's terms and conditions, and prohibit steering consumers to transactions that are not in their interest to increase compensation received. New rules regarding eligibility restrictions and disclosures for credit insurance and similar products would apply to all closed-end and open-end credit transactions.
