AGENCY: Commodity Futures Trading Commission.

ACTION: Notice and request for comment.

SUMMARY: Section 750 of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (the “Dodd-Frank Act” or “Act”) establishes an interagency working group (“interagency group”), headed by the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (the “CFTC”), to conduct a study on the oversight of existing and prospective carbon markets to ensure an efficient, secure, and transparent carbon market, including oversight of spot markets and derivative markets. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Recently a number of legislative proposals have been introduced in Congress setting out various approaches to reducing carbon emissions. Some of the proposals contain a market-based policy instrument. Various forms of carbon markets have also been established internationally as well as domestically. Some of the examples of those markets are the European Union Emission Trading Scheme, the Clean Development Mechanism, and the Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative. In addition, markets exist in the U.S. for the trading of sulfur dioxide allowances under the EPA Acid Rain program and nitrogen oxide under the EPA NO_x Trading program. The CFTC also oversees the derivative trading of a number of environmental instruments on the Chicago Climate Futures Exchange and the Green Exchange.¹ Under the various bills, different proposals have been set forth with respect to the oversight of a carbon market that would be established in those bills.

On July 21, 2010 the Dodd-Frank Act was enacted.² Section 750 of the Act establishes an interagency working group to study the oversight of existing and prospective carbon markets. The interagency group is composed of the following members or designees: The Chairman of the Commodity Futures Trading Commission, who shall serve as the Chairman of the interagency group, the Secretary of Agriculture, the Secretary of the Treasury, the Chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, the Administrator of the Environmental Protection Agency, the Chairman of the Federal Energy Regulatory Commission, the Chairman of the Federal Trade Commission³ and the Administrator of the Energy Information Administration.

The Dodd-Frank Act directs the interagency group to “conduct a study on the oversight of existing and prospective carbon markets to ensure an efficient, secure, and transparent carbon market, including oversight of spot markets and derivative markets.” In carrying out this study, the Act also directs the interagency group to consult with representatives of exchanges, clearinghouses, self-regulatory bodies, major carbon market participants, consumers and the general public, as the interagency group determines is appropriate. Finally, the Act requires the interagency group to submit to Congress a report, no later than 180 days after the date of enactment of the Act, on the results of the study, including recommendations regarding such oversight.

II. Solicitation for Comments on the Study on Oversight of Carbon Markets

To assist the interagency group in conducting the study on oversight of a carbon market, the CFTC seeks public comment on the following topics and questions:

1. Section 750 of the Dodd-Frank indicates that the goals of regulatory oversight should be to ensure that carbon markets are efficient, secure and transparent. What other regulatory objectives, if any, should guide the oversight of such markets?

¹ The CFTC designated the Green Exchange as a contract market on July 22, 2010; however, the exchange is not yet operational.

² Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act, Public Law 111-203, 124 Stat. 1376 (2010).

2. What are the basic economic features that might be incorporated in a carbon market that would have an effect on market oversight provisions—e.g., the basic characteristics of allowances, frequency of allocations and compliance obligations, banking of allowances, borrowing of allowances, cost containment mechanisms, etc.?

3. Do the regulatory objectives differ with respect to the oversight of spot market trading of carbon allowances compared to the oversight of derivatives market trading in these instruments? If so, explain further.

4. Are additional statutory provisions necessary to achieve the desired regulatory objectives for carbon markets beyond those provided in the Commodity Exchange Act, as amended by the Dodd-Frank Act, or other federal acts that may be applicable to the trading of carbon allowances?

5. What regulatory methods or tools would be appropriate to achieve the desired regulatory objectives?

6. What types of data or information should be required of market participants in order to allow adequate oversight of a carbon market? Should reporting requirements differ for separate types of market participants?

7. To what extent is it desirable or not desirable to have a unified regulatory oversight program that would oversee activity in both the secondary carbon market and in the derivatives markets?

8. To what extent, if any, and how should a U.S. regulatory program interact with the regulatory programs of carbon markets in foreign jurisdictions?

9. What has been the experience of state regulators in overseeing trading in the regional carbon markets and how would that instruct the design of a federal oversight program?

10. Based on trading experiences in SO₂ and NO_x emission allowances what regulatory oversight would market participants and market operators, respectively, recommend?

11. Who are the primary participants in the current primary environmental markets? Who are the primary participants in the current secondary allowance and derivatives environmental markets?
