Needs and Uses: The National Marine Fisheries Service (NMFS) operates a voluntary fee-for-service seafood inspection program (Program) under the authorities of the Agricultural Marketing Act of 1946, as amended, the Fish and Wildlife Act of 1956, and the Reorganization Plan No. 4 of 1970. The regulations for the Program are contained in 50 CFR part 260. The program offers inspection grading and certification services, including the use of official quality grade marks which indicate that specific products have been Federally inspected. Those wishing to participate in the Program must request the services and submit specific compliance information. In July 1992, NMFS announced new inspection services, which were fully based on guidelines recommended by the National Academy of Sciences, known as Hazard Analysis Critical Control Point (HACCP). The information collection requirements fall under § 260.15 of the regulations. These guidelines required that a facility's quality control system have a written plan of the operation, identification of control points with acceptance criteria and a corrective action plan, as well as identified personnel responsible for oversight of the system. The chapter entitled "Development, Assessment, Approval, and Continuing Compliance Evaluation of HACCP-based Inspection Systems," from the NMFS Fishery Products Inspection Manual, describes in detail the requirements for participants choosing to receive NMFS HACCP-based inspection services.

Affected Public: Business or other for-profit organizations.

Frequency: On occasion.

SUMMARY: As a result of the determination by the Department of Commerce ("the Department") and the International Trade Commission ("ITC") that revocation of the antidumping duty order on furfuryl alcohol from the People's Republic of China ("PRC") would be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of dumping and of material injury to an industry in the United States within a reasonably foreseeable time, the Department is publishing notice of the continuation of the antidumping duty order.

DATES: Effective Date: February 16, 2012.

The Department conducted an expedited sunset review of this order. As a result of its review, the Department found that revocation of the antidumping duty order would be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of dumping and notified the ITC of the magnitude of the margins likely to prevail were the order to be revoked.²

On February 6, 2012, the ITC published its determination pursuant to section 751(c) of the Act that revocation of the antidumping duty order on furfuryl alcohol from the PRC would be likely to lead to continuation or recurrence of material injury to an industry in the United States within a reasonably foreseeable time.³

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On August 10, 2011, the Department initiated the antidumping duty investigation on large power transformers from Korea.¹ Petitioners in this investigation are ABB Inc., Delta Star, Inc., and Pennsylvania Transformer Technology Inc. (collectively, petitioners). The Department set aside a period of time for parties to raise issues regarding product coverage and invited all parties to submit comments within 20 calendar days of publication of the Initiation Notice.² The Department also set aside a time for parties to comment on product characteristics for use in the antidumping duty questionnaire.³ Since the Initiation Notice, the following events have occurred.

On August 10, 2011, the Department notified all interested parties of its intent to select mandatory respondents for this investigation based on U.S. import data obtained from U.S. Customs and Border Protection (CBP) and set aside a period of time for parties to comment on the potential respondent selection. Parties were invited to submit comments within five calendar days from the date of that memorandum.⁴

On August 29, 2011, and August 30, 2011, Department officials visited Canonsburg, Pennsylvania to meet with officials of Pennsylvania Transformer Technology Inc., a petitioner in this proceeding, and their legal counsel, and also toured their facility.⁵
