SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Public Law 111-148, was enacted on March 23, 2010; the Health Care and Education Reconciliation Act of 2010 (Reconciliation Act), Public Law 111-152, was enacted on March 30, 2010 (collectively, “Affordable Care Act”). Section 1201 of the Affordable Care Act prohibits issuers of non-grandfathered health insurance coverage from denying coverage or inflating rates based on health status or medical history in policy years beginning on or after January 1, 2014. In light of the fact that these protections will not take effect until 2014, section 1101 of the Affordable Care Act directs the Secretary of Health and Human Services to establish, either directly or through contracts with states or nonprofit private entities, a temporary high risk health insurance pool program to provide immediate access to coverage for eligible uninsured Americans with pre-existing conditions. (Hereafter, we generally refer to this program as the Pre-Existing Condition Insurance Plan program, or the PCIP program.) The PCIP program provides coverage to eligible uninsured Americans with pre-existing conditions until 2014, when the protections under section 1201 of the Affordable Care Act referenced above take effect and coverage is available through the Affordable Insurance Exchanges established under section 1311 or 1321 of the Act.

HHS previously issued an interim final regulation implementing section 1101 of the Affordable Care Act. This interim final rule was published in the Federal Register on July 30, 2010 (75 FR 45014). For the reasons explained below, HHS is now issuing an amendment to this interim final rule.

II. Overview of the Amendment to the Interim Final Rule

The interim final rule issued on July 30, 2010, provided information on the administration of the PCIP program, eligibility for and enrollment in the program, program benefits, program oversight, program funding, coordination with state laws and programs, and the transition to coverage through the Affordable Insurance Exchanges. Under section 1101(d) of the Affordable Care Act and codified by the July 30, 2010 interim final rule at 45 CFR 152.14(a)(1) through (3), an individual is eligible to enroll in a PCIP if he or she: (1) Is a citizen or national of the United States or is lawfully present in the United States (as determined in accordance with section 1411 of the Affordable Care Act¹); (2) has not been covered under creditable coverage (as defined in section 2701(c)(1) of the Public Health Service Act as of the date of enactment of the Affordable Care Act—that is, March 23, 2010) during the 6-month period prior to the date on which he or she is applying for coverage through the PCIP; and (3) has a pre-existing condition, as determined in a manner consistent with guidance issued by the Secretary of HHS. We further provided in § 152.14(a)(4) of the interim final rule that an individual must be a resident of a state that falls within the service area of the PCIP.

In the interim final rule, HHS defined “lawfully present” as having a similar meaning as that given to “lawfully residing” in Medicaid and the Children’s Health Insurance Program (CHIP), as set forth in a State Health Official letter issued by the Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services (CMS) on July 1, 2010.² The July 30, 2010 interim final rule codified that definition of “lawfully present” at § 152.2.

Subsequent regulations implementing the Affordable Insurance Exchanges, 45 CFR 155.20 (77 FR 18310, March 27, 2012), and the premium tax credits, 26 CFR 1.36B-1(g) (77 FR 30377, May 23, 2012), issued by HHS and the Department of the Treasury respectively, define “lawfully present” by a cross-reference to the definition in § 152.2.

On June 15, 2012, the Department of Homeland Security (DHS) announced that it will consider providing temporary relief from removal by exercising deferred action on a case-by-case basis with respect to certain individuals under age 31 who meet DHS’s guidelines, including that he or she came to the United States as children and does not present a risk to national security or public safety.³ This process is referred to by DHS as Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals (DACA).⁴

As DHS has explained, the DACA process is designed to ensure that governmental resources for the removal of individuals are focused on high priority cases, including those involving a danger to national security or a risk to public safety, and not on low priority cases.⁵ Because the reasons that DHS offered for adopting the DACA process do not pertain to eligibility for Medicaid or CHIP, HHS has determined that these benefits should not be extended as a result of DHS deferring action under DACA. Concurrent with this amendment, CMS is issuing a State Health Official letter providing that individuals whose cases are deferred under DHS’s DACA process will not be eligible under the state option.⁶ As it also would not be consistent with the reasons offered for adopting the DACA process to extend health insurance subsidies under the Affordable Care Act to these individuals, HHS is amending its definition of “lawfully present” in the PCIP program, so that the PCIP program interim final rule does not inadvertently expand the scope of the DACA process.

Under the amended rule, individuals with deferred action under the DACA process are not eligible to enroll in the PCIP program. As the PCIP program definition of “lawfully present” is incorporated into the rules governing the Affordable Insurance Exchanges and the premium tax credits, individuals whose cases are deferred under the DACA process also will not be eligible to enroll in coverage through the Affordable Insurance Exchanges and, therefore, will not receive coverage that could make them eligible for premium tax credits under Treasury regulations (see 26 CFR 1.36–2(a)(1)) or for cost-sharing reductions starting in 2014.⁷ This is consistent with the rationale above.

We invite comment on the determination to exclude these individuals from eligibility for the PCIP program and from eligibility for coverage through the Affordable Insurance Exchanges, with the consequences noted above with respect to the premium tax credits and the cost-sharing reductions.

III. Interim Final Regulation and Waiver of Delay of Effective Date

Under the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) (5 U.S.C. 551, et seq.), while a notice of proposed rulemaking and an opportunity for public comment is generally required before promulgation of regulations, this is not required when an agency, for good cause, finds that notice and public comment thereon are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest.

HHS has determined that issuing this regulation in proposed form, such that it would not become effective until after public comment, would be contrary to the public interest. Because the PCIP program—a temporary program with limited funding—is currently enrolling eligible individuals and providing benefits for such enrollees, it is important that we provide clarity with respect to eligibility for this new and unforeseen group of individuals as soon as possible, before anyone with deferred action under the DACA process applies to enroll in the PCIP program.

HHS is issuing this amendment as an interim final rule with comment so as to provide the public with an opportunity for comment on the amendment, including to gather public comment on the implications of the amendment.

The APA also generally requires that a final rule be effective no sooner than 30 days after the date of publication in the Federal Register. This 30-day delay in effective date can be waived, however, if an agency finds good cause as to why the effective date should not be delayed, and the agency incorporates a statement of the finding and its reason in the rule issued.

For the same reason that we are issuing an interim final rule, we are making it effective immediately; that is, because the PCIP program—a temporary program with limited funding—is currently enrolling eligible individuals and providing benefits for such enrollees, it is important that we provide clarity with respect to the eligibility of this new and unforeseen group of individuals as soon as possible, before anyone with deferred action under the DACA process applies to enroll in the PCIP program.

IV. Executive Orders 13563 and 12866

Executive Orders 13563 and 12866 direct agencies to assess all costs and benefits of available regulatory alternatives and, if regulation is necessary, to select regulatory approaches that maximize net benefits (including potential economic, environmental, public health, and safety effects, distributive impacts, and equity). Executive Order 13563 emphasizes the importance of quantifying both costs and benefits, of reducing costs, of harmonizing rules, and of promoting flexibility. This rule has been designated a “significant regulatory action,” although not economically significant, under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866. Accordingly, the rule has been reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget.

V. Statutory Authority

The amendment to the interim final regulation is adopted pursuant to the authority contained in section 1101 of the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act (Pub. L. 111–148).

⁷ This is consistent with prior guidance issued by DHS: “If my case is deferred, will I be eligible for premium tax credits and reduced cost sharing through Affordable Insurance Exchanges starting in 2014? No. The Departments of Health and Human Services and the Treasury intend to conform the relevant regulations to the extent necessary to exempt individuals with deferred action for childhood arrivals from eligibility for premium tax credits and reduced cost sharing. This is consistent with the policy under S. 3992, the Development, Relief, and Education for Alien Minors (DREAM) Act of 2010.” See Consideration of Deferred Action for Childhood Arrivals, <http://www.uscis.gov/childhoodarrivals>.
