SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Title: Arapaho-Roosevelt National Forest Visitor Surveys for Recreation Transportation System Alternatives Study.

OMB Number: 0596-NEW.

Expiration Date of Approval: Not applicable.

Type of Request: New.

Abstract: With over 5.4 million recreation visits annually, the Arapaho-Roosevelt is one of the most visited national forests in the nation. Encompassing both sides of the Continental Divide and the urban Front Range, from the Denver area to the Wyoming border, the Arapaho-Roosevelt urban forest provides outdoor recreation opportunities, services, and facilities to the residents of Colorado and visitors throughout the nation and around the world.

The population of the Front Range metropolitan area served by the Arapaho-Roosevelt National Forest is approximately 3.3 million and is predicted to double in the next 25 years. The demand for access to recreational facilities within the forest is expected to increase at nearly the same rate. Three Front Range recreation sites, Brainard Lake Recreation Area (including the Indian Peaks Wilderness), Mount Evans Recreation Area, and the Guanella Pass area are already experiencing resource damage and a reduction in the quality of visitor experience due to heavy use. As access demands increase, resource conditions and the quality of visitor experience are anticipated to decline even further.

The Forest Service is evaluating the potential for the addition of alternative transportation to existing recreation transportation systems accessing these sites. The purpose of this evaluation is to determine if this addition will help the Agency better manage its recreation opportunities and resources, thereby improving its delivery of services to an ever-increasing public. The Forest Service received a grant from the Paul S. Sarbanes Transit in Parks Program in 2010 to conduct research at the three aforementioned recreation sites. This program will help the Agency make the determination as to what mode(s) of alternative transportation would improve service delivery, resource management, and visitor experience quality. At the present time, data pertaining to traffic, parking, and resource conditions are being collected. In the summer of 2013, the Forest Service will collect feedback from visitors to assess their opinions about potential changes in the transportation system and the impact it would have on their recreation experience.

Under the following authorities, the Forest Service is obligated to actively solicit public input to improve National Forest System lands management to better serve the public:

1. Forest Service Administration Organic Act of 1897 [16 U.S.C. 473-478, 479-482, and 551] as amended,
