

SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION20 CFR Parts 404 and 416

[Docket No. SSA-2013-0023]

RIN 0960-AH59

Extension of the Expiration Date for State Disability Examiner Authority To Make Fully Favorable Quick Disability Determinations and Compassionate AllowancesAGENCY: Social Security Administration.
ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: We are extending the expiration date of our rules that authorizes State agency disability examiners to make fully favorable determinations without the approval of a State agency medical or psychological consultant in claims that we consider under our quick disability determination (QDD) and compassionate allowance (CAL) processes. The current rules will expire on November 12, 2013. In this final rule, we are changing the November 12, 2013 expiration or “sunset” date to November 14, 2014, extending the authority for 1 year. We are making no other substantive changes, although we are making minor, nonsubstantive editorial changes to the rule for clarity.

DATES: This final rule is effective November 6, 2013.FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT:

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Background of the QDD and CAL Disability Examiner Authority

On October 13, 2010, we published final rules that temporarily authorized State agency disability examiners to make fully favorable determinations without the approval of a State agency medical or psychological consultant in claims that we consider under our QDD and CAL processes. 75 FR 62676.

We included in 20 CFR 404.1615(c)(3) and 416.1015(c)(3) provisions by which the State agency disability examiners' authority to make fully favorable determinations without medical or psychological consultant approval in QDD and CAL claims would no longer be effective on November 12, 2013, unless we decided to terminate the rules earlier or extend them beyond that date by publication of a final rule in the Federal Register. 75 FR 62676.

Explanation of Provision

This final rule extends for 1 year the authority in the rules we published on October 13, 2010 allowing disability examiners to make fully favorable determinations in certain disability claims under our QDD and CAL processes without the approval of a medical or psychological consultant. This rule is consistent with our strategic goal to make fully favorable determinations when we can as quickly as possible.¹ The rule will also help us process cases more efficiently because it will allow State agency medical and psychological consultants to spend their time on cases that require their expertise.

In the rules we published on October 13, 2010, we noted that our experience adjudicating QDD and CAL cases led us to our decision to allow disability examiners to make some fully favorable determinations without a medical or psychological consultation. When we implemented the rules, we also knew that State agencies would require some time to establish procedures, adopt necessary software modifications, and satisfy collective bargaining obligations. Extending the rule will provide us at least three years of data on the active processes.

This final rule will allow us to continue to adjudicate fully favorable determinations more quickly under our QDD and CAL processes. Our reviews of cases in fiscal years 2012 and 2013 adjudicated under the current rules show that the rules have not had an adverse effect on the quality of our determinations, and we are continuing to review more recent data. In fact, QDD and CAL cases adjudicated under these rules have accuracy rates that are comparable to, if not higher than, the accuracy rates of other cases involving a medical or psychological consultation. Moreover, among cases for which our reviews identified an error, a significantly smaller share contained material errors that resulted in an incorrect outcome. For these reasons, we have decided to extend the expiration date in §§ 404.1615(c)(3) and 416.1015(c)(3). Accordingly, we are extending the rule for 1 year, until November 14, 2014. As before, we reserve the authority to terminate the rule earlier or to extend it by publishing a final rule in the Federal Register.

We are also making minor, nonsubstantive editorial changes to the first sentence of current §§ 404.1615(c)(3) and 416.1015(c)(3). These minor changes merely improve the clarity of the current sentence.

Regulatory Procedures*Justification for Issuing a Final Rule Without Notice and Comment*

We follow the Administrative Procedure Act (APA) rulemaking procedures specified in 5 U.S.C. 553 when developing regulations. Section 702(a)(5) of the Social Security Act, 42 U.S.C. 902(a)(5). Generally, the APA requires that an agency provide prior notice and opportunity for public comment before issuing a final rule. However, the APA provides exceptions to its notice and public comment procedures when an agency finds there is good cause for dispensing with such procedures because they are impracticable, unnecessary, or contrary to the public interest.

We have determined that good cause exists for dispensing with the notice and public comment procedures for this rule. 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(B). Good cause exists because this final rule only extends the expiration date of the existing provision and makes minor nonsubstantive editorial changes to the rule. It makes no substantive changes. The current regulations expressly provide that we may extend or terminate this rule. Therefore, we have determined that opportunity for prior comment is unnecessary, and we are issuing this rule as a final rule.

In addition, for the reasons cited above, we find good cause for dispensing with the 30-day delay in the effective date of this final rule. 5 U.S.C. 553(d)(3). We are not making any substantive changes in our current rule, but are only extending the expiration date of the rule and making minor editorial changes. In addition, as discussed above, the change we are making in this final rule will allow us to better utilize our scarce administrative resources in light of the current budgetary constraints under which we are operating. For these reasons, we find that it is contrary to the public interest to delay the effective date of our rule.

Executive Order 12866, as Supplemented by Executive Order 13563

We consulted with the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) and determined that this final rule does not meet the criteria for a significant regulatory action under Executive Order 12866, as supplemented by Executive Order 13563. Therefore, OMB did not review it.

We also determined that this final rule meets the plain language requirement of Executive Order 12866.

Regulatory Flexibility Act

We certify that this final rule will not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities because it affects individuals only. Therefore, the Regulatory Flexibility Act, as amended, does not require us to prepare a regulatory flexibility analysis.

Paperwork Reduction Act

This final rule does not create any new or affect any existing collections and, therefore, does not require OMB approval under the Paperwork Reduction Act.

Modifications of Certain Derivative Contracts

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Treasury.

ACTION: Final regulations and removal of temporary regulations.

SUMMARY: This document contains final regulations relating to the transfer or assignment of certain derivative contracts. The final regulations provide guidance to the nonassigning counterparty to a derivative contract and an assignee on certain notional principal contracts that are derivative contracts. The final regulations provide that the nonassigning counterparty does not have an exchange for purposes of § 1.1001-1(a) when certain derivative contracts are transferred or assigned and clarify that the embedded loan rules of § 1.446-3(g)(4) do not apply to such transactions.

DATES: Effective Date: These regulations are effective on November 6, 2013.

Applicability Date: For the date of applicability, see § 1.1001-4(d).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

This document contains amendments to 26 CFR part 1. On July 22, 2011, temporary regulations (TD 9538) relating to the effect of the transfer or assignment of certain derivative contracts under section 1001 of the Internal Revenue Code (Code) were published in the Federal Register (76 FR 43892). A notice of proposed rulemaking (REG-109006-11) cross-referencing the temporary regulations was published in the Federal Register for the same day (76 FR 43957). A correction to the temporary regulations was published on August 19, 2011, in the Federal Register (76 FR 51878). No public hearing was requested or held. No written or electronic comments responding to the notice of proposed rulemaking were received. The proposed regulations are adopted as amended by this Treasury decision, and the corresponding temporary regulations are removed.

Section 1001 provides rules for the computation and recognition of gain or loss from a sale or other disposition of property. For purposes of section 1001, § 1.1001-1(a) of the Income Tax Regulations generally provides that gain or loss is realized upon an exchange of property for other property differing materially either in kind or in extent. As a general matter, the assignment of a derivative contract is treated as a taxable disposition to a nonassigning counterparty if the resulting contract differs materially either in kind or in extent.
