

patent invalid and found that no domestic industry exists.

On April 4, 2014, Realtek filed a petition for review, and on April 7, 2014, Respondents filed a contingent petition for review. The parties timely responded to each other's petitions for review.

On May 22, 2014, the Commission determined to review the ID in part. The Commission sought briefing on seventeen questions and on the issues of remedy, public interest and bonding. On June 5, 2014, the parties filed their initial briefs on review and on June 16, 2014, the parties filed their responsive briefs.

Having considered the record and the parties' submissions, the Commission finds that no violation of section 337 has occurred. Specifically, the Commission affirms in part, reverses in part, and vacates in part to find that (1) all of the accused products infringe claims 1–3, and 6–10 of the '928 patent; (2) the FireWire chips also infringe claims 4–5; (3) the MS410B and MS410B2 chips anticipate claims 1–3 and 6–9; (4) the MS410B and MS410B2 chips do not anticipate claim 10; (5) the Ker application does not anticipate claims 1–10; (6) claims 4–5 are obvious in view of the MS410B and MS410B2 chips and the Ker application; and (7) a domestic industry does not exist.

The authority for the Commission's determination is contained in section 337 of the Tariff Act of 1930, as amended (19 U.S.C. 1337), and in Part 210 of the Commission's Rules of Practice and Procedure (19 CFR Part 210).
