

Needs and Uses: In Report and Order and Order on Reconsideration, FCC 11–50, the Commission adopted rules that related to implementation of section 224 pole attachment access rules.

Specifically, the pole attachment access rules create a series of deadlines or “timelines” by which communications providers (“attachers”) request and receive permission from electric utilities and incumbent LECs (“pole owners” or “utilities”) to attach facilities to utility poles (“access”). A denial (or partial grant) of access by a utility must include all relevant evidence and information, and explain how the evidence and information relate to lack of capacity, safety, reliability, or engineering standards. In practice, this requirement causes the utility to survey the requested poles where access is requested and to perform an engineering analysis. Other paperwork burdens are triggered during the pole-preparation stage of the timeline (“make-ready”). These include sending letters of notification to any known entities with existing attachments and the requesting attacher. Such notification letters are sent when a make-ready schedule is established. If the make-ready period is interrupted; and if the pole owner asserts its right to one 15-day extension of time, notification letters are also required. Pole owners both perform and coordinate make-ready work. Additionally, the Order adopted a rule requiring utilities to post a list of approved contractors, and required new attachers that use contractors to perform pole attachment surveys or make-ready work in lieu of the utility using its own workers to choose from among approved contractors. If an attacher uses a utility-approved contractor, it must notify the utility, and invite the utility to send a representative to oversee the work.

Finally, the Order also broadens the existing enforcement process by permitting incumbent local exchange carriers (LECs) to file complaints alleging that the attachment rates demanded by electric utilities are unreasonable. The Order also encourages incumbent LECs that benefit from lower pole attachment costs to file data at the Commission that demonstrate that the benefits are being passed on to consumers.

Proposed Project

Monitoring and Reporting System for the Division of Community Health's Cooperative Agreement Programs—New—National Center for Chronic Disease Prevention and Health Promotion (NCCDPHP), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC).

Background and Brief Description

In September 2014, the Division of Community Health (DCH), Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC), announced 93 awards under three new cooperative agreement programs authorized by the Public Health Service Act and the Prevention and Public Health Fund of the Affordable Care Act (FOA DP14-1417, FOA DP14-1418, and FOA DP14-1419PPHF14). The new programs are designed to address chronic diseases and risk factors for chronic diseases, including physical inactivity, poor diet, obesity, and tobacco use. The programs will provide support for implementation of broad, evidence- and practice-based policy and environmental improvements in a mix of 93 large and small cities, urban rural areas, tribes, multi-sectorial community coalitions, and racial and ethnic communities experiencing chronic disease disparities. Awardees include a combination of 41 state, local, and tribal governmental agencies and 52 non-governmental (private sector) entities.

CDC is seeking OMB approval to collect information from the new DCH awardees utilizing an electronic Policy, Environment, Programmatic, and Infrastructure Database (PEPID) designed to enable the accurate, reliable, uniform and timely submission to CDC of each awardee's work plan and progress reports. Monitoring allows CDC to determine whether an awardee is meeting performance goals, to make adjustments in the type and level of technical assistance provided to them, and to provide oversight of the use of federal funds. The burden per response for routine, semi-annual reporting through PEPID is three hours. The burden estimate also includes a one-time allocation of 15 hours for initial population of the PEPID system, which is annualized over the period of the information collection request.

CDC is also requesting OMB approval to conduct targeted, special purpose information collections on an as-needed basis. Due to substantial interest in the new cooperative agreement programs, CDC estimates that each DCH awardee could be asked to participate in one special purpose information collection per year to supplement routine progress reporting. Each special purpose information collection request will be submitted to OMB for approval through the Change Request mechanism, and will include the data collection instrument(s) and a description of purpose and methods. The ability to conduct special purpose data collections will enable CDC to effectively manage programmatic activities and respond to inquiries. The estimated burden per response for each special data request is six hours.

OMB approval is requested for three years. Participation is required for cooperative agreement awardees. There are no costs to respondents other than their time. The total estimated annualized burden hours are 1,596.
