

This report demonstrates the effect of these improvements by comparing national and regional results among the SSP and RCP combinations used and the two climate models selected. ICLUS v2 shows differences in population migration patterns by including climate variables that change over time rather than ones that are static. Additionally, changing commercial and industrial land uses can drive patterns of new urban growth that have consequences for many environmental endpoints. Therefore, ICLUS v2 is better suited to explore scenarios of climate change impacts, vulnerability, and adaptation options, including the use of ICLUS v2 outputs in models projecting emissions from developed land uses and consequences for water and air quality endpoints, as well as human health.

Dated: April 11, 2016.
