

shredding; and electronic records are destroyed by electronic erasure. Individuals interested in further information about retention and disposal may request a copy of the disposition instructions from the FCC's Records Management Office.

ADMINISTRATIVE, TECHNICAL, AND PHYSICAL SAFEGUARDS:

1. The electronic records, data, and files are maintained in the FCC computer network databases, which are protected by the FCC's IT privacy safeguards, a comprehensive and dynamic set of IT safety and security protocols and features that are designed to meet all Federal IT privacy standards, including those required by the National Institute of Standard and Technology (NIST) and the Federal Information Security Modernization Act of 2014 (FISMA). The protocols cover all electronic records, files, and data, including those that are housed in the FCC's computer network databases, and those information system databases that are housed at the FCC's authorized contractor(s).

2. The paper documents and files are stored in approved security containers, which are locked when not in use and/or at the end of the business day. The security containers are located in a secure "non-public" part of the Security Operations Center (SOC) office suite. All SOC access points are monitored and controlled. Admittance to the SOC office suite is limited to approved SOC and administrative personnel. Access to the IT offices is via a key and card-coded door.

3. Some paper records (limited in number and scope) are also kept in the FCC's regional offices and laboratory facilities. These records are stored in locked metal file cabinets in locked rooms, which comply with Federal security requirements.

4. Only SOC staff and authorized contractors (including the contractors who maintain the FCC's computer network) may have access to the electronic data and the paper document records and files. As a further measure, access to these electronic records is restricted to the SOC staff and contractors who have a specific role in the Personal Identity Verification (PIV) process that requires their access to background investigation information and related SOC functions. The SOC maintains an audit trail to monitor access.

5. Furthermore, as part of these privacy and security requirements, SOC staff and contractors must complete training specific to their roles to ensure that they are knowledgeable about how to protect PII.

In CC Docket No. 96-187, the Commission adopted measures to streamline tariff filing requirements for local exchange carriers (LECs) pursuant to the Telecommunications Act of 1996. In order to achieve a streamlined and deregulatory environment for LEC tariff filings, LECs are required to file tariffs electronically. Other carriers are permitted to file their tariffs electronically. There are six information collection requirements under this OMB control number: (1) Electronic filing requirement; (2) requirement that carriers desiring tariffs proposing rate decreases to be effective in seven days file separate transmittals; (3) requirement that carriers identify transmittals filed pursuant to the streamlined provisions of the Telecommunications Act of 1996; (4) requirement that price cap LECs file their Tariff Review Plans (TRPs) prior to filing their annual access tariffs; (5) petitions and replies; and (6) standard protective orders.

The information collected under the electronic filing program will facilitate access to tariffs and associated documents by the public, especially by interested persons who do not have ready access to the Commission's public reference room, and state and federal regulators. Ready electronic access to carrier tariffs should also facilitate the compilation of aggregate data for industry analysis purposes without imposing new reporting requirements on carriers. All of the requirements will be used to ensure that LECs comply with their obligations under the Communications Act of 1934, as amended and that the Commission will be able to ensure compliance within the streamlined timeframes established by the 1996 Act.
