SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

Under the Animal Health Protection Act, or AHPA (7 U.S.C. 8301 et seq.), the Secretary of Agriculture is authorized to protect the health of U.S. livestock by preventing the introduction and interstate spread of diseases and pests of livestock and for eradicating such diseases from the United States when feasible. The Secretary may also establish a veterinary accreditation program consistent with the AHPA, which includes standards of conduct for accredited veterinarians. The administration of this program, known as the National Veterinary Accreditation Program (NVAP), has been delegated to the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service (APHIS), Veterinary Services (VS). The NVAP allows private practitioners, once accredited by APHIS, to assist Federal veterinarians with performing certain tasks to control and prevent the spread of animal diseases throughout the United States and internationally.

Title 9 of the Code of Federal Regulations (CFR), chapter I, subchapter J (parts 160 through 162, referred to below as the regulations) contains regulations for accreditation of veterinarians and suspension or revocation of accreditation. Part 160 contains definitions pertaining to the NVAP. Part 161 includes standards for accredited veterinarians, conditions for veterinary accreditation application, renewal, revocation and suspension, and provisions for program certification of accredited veterinarians. Part 162, subpart A, describes the scope and applicability of the rules of practice for proceedings for the revocation or suspension of accreditation of veterinarians as provided in parts 160 and 161. Part 162, subpart B, provides supplemental rules of practice for summary suspension or revocation of accreditation of veterinarians. Under subpart B, the Administrator may summarily suspend the accreditation of a veterinarian where there is reason to believe that the veterinarian has knowingly violated the AHPA.

Although we are proposing several changes to parts 160 through 162, none of the changes we propose to make imposes new regulatory requirements. The purpose of the changes is to clarify and update the NVAP regulations.

Additions and Changes to Definitions

In § 160.1, accredited veterinarian is currently defined as a veterinarian approved by the Administrator in accordance with the provisions of part 161 of subchapter J to perform functions specified in subchapters B, C, and D of chapter I.

We propose to amend the definition of accredited veterinarian so that it lists all subchapters in 9 CFR chapter I under which accredited veterinarians may perform duties consistent with the AHPA. Specifically, we would reference subchapter G, “Livestock Improvement,” in the definition along with subchapters B, C, and D currently listed in the definition. Subchapter G includes programs constituting the National Poultry Improvement Plan and the Voluntary Trichinae Certification Program, both of which derive their authority from the AHPA. We would also reference subchapter G along with subchapters B, C, and D in §§ 161.1(g)(2)(xi) and 161.7(a). We propose to make this change to ensure that the regulations contain an accurate record of all programs covered under the AHPA, but we do not expect the change to affect the current status of these programs under subchapter G with respect to administration or staffing.

The terms “accreditation” and “authorization,” as used in current § 161.2, have distinct meanings. “Accreditation” means the action of the Administrator initially approving a veterinarian in accordance with the provisions of part 161 to perform functions in one State, while “authorization” means the action of the Administrator approving an accredited veterinarian in accordance with the provisions of part 161 to perform functions in a State or States other than the State in which the veterinarian was initially accredited.

Some stakeholders have been confused as to the distinction between the two terms. For this reason, we propose to add definitions for accreditation and authorization to § 160.1. If an accredited veterinarian wishes to perform accredited duties in a State other than the State in which that veterinarian was initially accredited, he or she must complete an application to request authorization to perform accredited duties in the new State from the Veterinarian-in-Charge of that State. Although accreditation is a one-time action and valid nationally, an accredited veterinarian may not perform accredited duties in a State other than the one in which he or she was initially accredited until APHIS provides the authorization to perform accredited duties in the additional State.

To further underscore the distinction between accreditation and authorization, we also propose to add a definition for authorization to mean the action of the Administrator approving an accredited veterinarian in accordance with the provisions of part 161 to perform functions specified in subchapters B, C, D, and G, in a State or States other than the State in which the veterinarian was initially accredited.

Accredited veterinarians are assigned to one of two categories under which they are authorized to perform accredited duties on certain types of animals. As noted in § 161.1(b) of the current regulations, those accredited under Category I are authorized to perform duties on Category I animals only, while veterinarians accredited under Category II are authorized to perform duties on animals listed in both Category I and Category II. Category I animals are currently defined as “any animals other than Category II animals, e.g., cats and dogs,” and Category II animals are defined as “food and fiber animal species; horses; birds; farm-raised aquatic animals; all other livestock species; and zoo animals that can transmit exotic animal diseases to livestock.”

In § 160.1, we propose to revise the current definition for Category I animals to address confusion voiced by stakeholders as to which animals fall under that category, as the current definition of Category I animals does not actually list the animals covered. The revised definition for Category I animals would state “All animals except: Food and fiber species, horses, birds, farm-raised aquatic animals, all other livestock species, and zoo animals that can transmit exotic animal diseases to livestock.” Accordingly, we would revise the definition for Category II animals to include “all animals.” This helps to clarify the point that veterinarians accredited under Category II may perform duties on all animal species.

In § 160.1, official certificate, form, record, report, tag, band, or other identification is currently defined as any certificate, form, record, report, tag, band, or other identification, prescribed by statute or by regulations issued by the Administrator, for use by an accredited veterinarian performing official functions.

We propose to amend that definition by adding “document” and “seal” to the term and revising the definition to read “Any certificate, document, seal, form, record, report, tag, band, or other identification, prescribed by statute or by regulations issued or a State form approved by the Administrator, for use by an accredited veterinarian performing official functions under this subchapter.” We are proposing this change in order to reflect the current use of State-issued documents and seals approved by the Administrator by an accredited veterinarian performing official functions.

In §§ 160.1, 161.2(a), 161.4, 161.6(c), 162.11, and 162.12 of the regulations, the veterinary official of APHIS assigned by the Administrator to supervise and perform the official work of APHIS in a State or group of States is currently referred to as the Veterinarian-in-Charge.

We propose to replace the term Veterinarian-in-Charge with Program official in each of the above sections and paragraphs noted. This proposed change provides the flexibility to cover changes to official titles in VS.

Other Changes

Section 161.1 includes accreditation requirements and application procedures for veterinary accreditation. An accreditation requirement in paragraph § 161.1(e)(2) states in part that the veterinarian must be “licensed or legally able to practice veterinary medicine in the State in which the veterinarian wishes to perform accredited duties.” We would amend this requirement in order to clarify that an unlicensed veterinarian is legally able to practice veterinary medicine in a State provided that the veterinarian is granted written permission to do so by that State’s veterinary licensing authority.

Another accreditation requirement includes participation in an orientation that covers animal health regulations, disease control programs, and ethical responsibilities. The introduction to these topics in § 161.1(e)(4) refers to a “core orientation program.” For consistency with other references to the orientation program in the regulations, we propose to remove the word “core.”

Section 161.2, “Performance of accredited duties in different States,” requires that an accredited veterinarian wishing to perform accredited duties in a State other than the State in which he or she was initially accredited complete an application to request authorization to perform accredited duties in the new State. We propose to replace all references to “new” State in § 161.2 to “additional” State and replace “different” with “additional” in the section heading. This replacement would improve consistency of language within the regulations with no new requirements.

Section 161.2(b) requires that an accredited veterinarian not perform accredited duties in a State in which he or she is not licensed or legally able to practice veterinary medicine. We propose to amend paragraph § 161.2(b) to clarify that VS may accept documentation issued by a State’s veterinary licensing authority as a basis to verify the accreditation eligibility of unlicensed veterinarians in the same way that a license serves to verify eligibility for licensed veterinarians. The proposed change would state that “an accredited veterinarian may not perform accredited duties in a State in which the accredited veterinarian is not licensed or in possession of a document from the State’s veterinary licensing authority that he or she is legally able to practice veterinary medicine in that State without a license.”

Executive Orders 13771 and 12866 and Regulatory Flexibility Act

This proposed rule has been determined to be not significant for the purpose of Executive Order 12866 and, therefore, has not been reviewed by the Office of Management and Budget. This proposed rule is not expected to be an Executive Order 13771 regulatory action because the proposed rule is not significant under Executive Order 12866.

In accordance with the Regulatory Flexibility Act, we have analyzed the potential economic effects of this action on small entities. The analysis is summarized below. Copies of the full analysis are available by contacting the person listed under FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT or on the Regulations.gov website (see ADDRESSES above for instructions for accessing Regulations.gov).

The mission of the NVAP is to provide accredited veterinarians with the information they need to ensure the health of the nation’s livestock and animal population and to protect public health and well-being. APHIS relies on accredited veterinarians to carry out many program duties.

APHIS is not proposing new regulatory requirements, but rather amending the regulations governing the NVAP by adding, updating, or clarifying certain definitions and terminology in 9 CFR parts 160, 161, and 162 that pertain to veterinary accreditation.

There are approximately 108,000 veterinarians in the United States, of which about 69,000 are accredited under the NVAP. According to the Small Business Administration, entities that provide veterinary services (classified under NAICS 541940) are considered to be small if they have $7,500,000 or less in annual receipts. Therefore, many veterinarians would be considered small entities. However, because this action amends and clarifies definitions for the NVAP and is purely administrative, it would not impose new or additional burdens on APHIS accredited veterinarians or those veterinarians seeking accreditation. Thus, no economic impact is anticipated.

Under these circumstances, the Administrator of the Animal and Plant Health Inspection Service has determined that this action would not have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities.
