

of the Assessment by financial institutions is voluntary. Therefore, financial institutions may choose to use the Assessment, the NIST Cybersecurity Framework, or any other risk assessment process or tool to assess cybersecurity risk. The Agencies' examiners will not require a financial institution to complete the Assessment, nor will they require financial institutions to translate other risk frameworks into the Assessment format. However, if a financial institution has completed the Assessment, examiners may ask the financial institution for a copy, as they would for any risk self-assessment performed by a financial institution.

Benchmarking

One industry group stated that an advantage to the broad collection of Assessment information across the entire financial services sector is the ability to compile information into useful benchmarking data for banks of comparable size and risk profiles so that peer institutions may become aware of their overall cybersecurity posture in the sector. The industry group stated that the information may be useful to an information security officer or board of directors, particularly when it comes time to discuss budget impacts of the financial institution's security posture. Additionally, benchmarking may allow the Agencies insight into broad categories of risk and exposure in the financial services sector.

Since use of the Assessment by financial institutions is voluntary and may vary across financial institutions, the Agencies do not intend to publish or otherwise make publicly available the results of financial institutions' use of the Assessment.

Accuracy of Burden Estimate

The Agencies estimated that, annually, it would take a financial institution between 80 and 180 burden hours, depending on the institution's size, to complete the Assessment.

All three commenters addressed the accuracy of the Agencies' burden estimates. The FSSCC letter stated that the Agencies' burden estimate understated the burden involved in completing the Assessment, and one of the industry groups referenced and endorsed the FSSCC's conclusions in its letter. The FSSCC advised that to be more accurate, the Agencies' burden hour estimates should include the time required to prepare for and complete the Assessment. The FSSCC stated that preparing to complete the Assessment includes the testing of controls and systems, gathering of materials as evidence, and the accompanying education of staff that are not familiar with the Assessment. The FSSCC stated that the time required to collect evidence and review systems before the Assessment can begin is significant, and the hours required to review the Assessment's more than 530 responses—usually by committee—is substantial. The FSSCC further stated that the hours required to complete responses to the Assessment, while concurrently completing assessments based on other industry-based standards (e.g., NIST Cybersecurity Framework) for other regulatory agencies (such as state or market regulators), is significant. The FSSCC added that the amount of time spent training cybersecurity professionals on the Assessment is underestimated.

The other industry group stated that the Agencies overestimated the burden hours necessary for community banks to complete and subsequently update the Assessment. This industry group stated that its members reported the burden of completing an initial Assessment as being 40 hours or less. Members of this industry group reported that the burden of completing annual updates to the Assessment for subsequent evaluations could take between 15 and 20 hours.

The Agencies do not believe that commenters provided any additional information that would result in the Agencies changing their burden estimates at this time. The PRA defines burden to include the "time, effort, or financial resources expended by persons to generate, maintain, or provide information to or for a federal agency." 44 U.S.C. 3502(2). The Agencies note that the burden estimates assume that the Assessment is completed by knowledgeable individuals at the financial institution who have readily available information to complete the Assessment. Additionally, while the Assessment's User's Guide provides that institutions may use the Assessment to prioritize improvement of their cybersecurity posture, completing the Assessment does not include development or implementation of action plans. The Agencies further note that completion of the Assessment does not include internal reporting. Any internal reporting that financial institutions may choose to undertake is therefore outside of the scope of the Assessment. Because reporting to committees, developing and implementing internal action plans, and preparing for examinations are not part of completing the Assessment, these activities do not constitute burden under the PRA. In addition, for financial institutions, reporting to boards and management generally constitutes a usual and customary business practice. Usual and customary business practices are excluded from the definition of burden under OMB regulations.⁵

The Agencies recognize that the size and complexity of a financial institution impacts the amount of time and resources necessary to complete the Assessment and, for that reason, the Agencies' burden estimates vary based on financial institution asset size. The Agencies also appreciate that the time necessary for a particular financial institution to complete the Assessment can vary, potentially widely, based on whether the institution has readily available information to complete the Assessment. The Agencies will review their burden estimates from time to time and will update them in the future, if warranted.
