C. What should I Consider as I prepare my comments for EPA?

Information marked as CBI will not be disclosed except in accordance with procedures set forth in 40 CFR part 2.

- Identify the subject of your comments by the docket number and the site name in the title of this notice or the Federal Register publication date and page number.
- Follow directions—the agency may ask you to respond to specific questions or organize comments by referencing a Code of Federal Regulations (CFR) part or section number.
- Explain why you agree or disagree with the terms of the Settlement; suggest alternatives and substitute language for your requested changes.
- Describe any assumptions and provide any technical information and/or data that you used.
- If you estimate potential costs or burdens, explain how you arrived at your estimate in sufficient detail to allow for it to be reproduced.
- Provide specific examples to illustrate your concerns and suggest alternatives.
- Explain your views as clearly as possible, avoiding the use of profanity or personal threats.

BILLING CODE 6714-01-P

¹ To arrive at the estimated number of respondents published in the 60-day Federal Register notice (84 FR 30714, June 27, 2019), the FDIC counted the number of deposit insurance applications received between January 1, 2017 and March 31, 2019. Nine (9) applications were received in 2017; 27 were received in 2018; and six (6) were received during the first quarter of 2019. FDIC is aware that there has been increasing interest in forming new banks and each new bank would need to submit an application for Federal deposit insurance. In addition, the FDIC has begun to take steps to ease the deposit insurance application process. Based on the foregoing, FDIC determined that the annual number of respondents for this information collection should be adjusted to 34 and that number was used in to arrive at the burden estimate published in the 60-day notice.

Since the 60-day Federal Register notice was published, FDIC refined the estimated number of expected deposit insurance applications by annualizing the rate of applications received during the first quarter of 2019 to derive an annual estimate of 24. Using the above historical application data, FDIC staff produced an intermediate estimate of 20 as the annual average number of applications expected. Starting with the intermediate estimate of 20 respondents per year, and weighting the expert judgment of FDIC staff at 50 percent to incorporate the qualitative factors discussed above (20 + 0.50 * 20), FDIC is revising its estimated number of respondents for this information collection to 30 respondents per year.
