SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The National Institute of Mental Health (NIMH) is the lead federal agency for research on mental illnesses. The mission of the NIMH is to transform the understanding and treatment of mental illnesses through basic and clinical research, paving the way for prevention, recovery, and cure. To fulfill its mission, the NIMH supports and conducts research on mental illnesses and the underlying basic science of brain and behavior; supports the training of scientists to carry out basic and clinical mental health research; and, communicates with scientists, patients, providers, and the general public about the science of mental illnesses.

Every five years, NIMH publishes a Strategic Plan for Research to accelerate progress in basic, translational, and clinical science. The need to update the plan became clear with the increasing number of remarkable scientific advancements, the changing landscapes of mental health care over the past few years, and the pace of discovery and change in the mental health space.

With the goals of helping individuals living with mental illnesses and promoting both prevention and cure, NIMH has updated its high-level Goals as follows:

1. Define the Brain Mechanisms Underlying Complex Behaviors
2. Examine Mental Illness Trajectories Across the Lifespan
3. Strive for Prevention and Cures
4. Strengthen the Public Health Impact of NIMH-Supported Research

These four Goals form a broad roadmap for the Institute’s priorities over the next five years, which begins with the fundamental science of the brain and behavior and continues through to the public health impact. Full implementation of these Goals will, we hope, transform the diagnosis, treatment, and prevention of mental illnesses.
