Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices; Guidance for Industry and Food and Drug Administration Staff; Availability

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration, HHS.

ACTION: Notice of availability.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA or Agency) is announcing the availability of a final guidance entitled “Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 (CLIA) Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices.” FDA has updated this guidance to implement the waiver improvements section of the 21st Century Cures Act (the Cures Act), which requires FDA to revise “Section V. Demonstrating Insignificant Risk of an Erroneous Result—Accuracy” of the guidance “Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 (CLIA) Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices” (“2008 CLIA Waiver Guidance”) that was issued on January 30, 2008. The remainder of the 2008 CLIA Waiver Guidance, with exception of technical edits for consistency with the newly amended section V, has not been substantively changed. This final guidance provides additional and updated approaches for demonstrating that a test meets the statutory criteria for waiver and includes FDA’s revised thinking regarding “the appropriate use of comparable performance between a waived user and a moderately complex laboratory user to demonstrate accuracy.”

DATES: The announcement of the guidance is published in the Federal Register on February 26, 2020.

ADDRESSES: You may submit either electronic or written comments on Agency guidances at any time as follows:

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

This final guidance revises the guidance titled “Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 (CLIA) Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices” (“2008 CLIA Waiver Guidance”) that was issued on January 30, 2008, to implement section 3057 of the Cures Act (Pub. L. 114-255), which requires FDA to revise “Section V. Demonstrating Insignificant Risk of an Erroneous Result—Accuracy” of the 2008 CLIA Waiver Guidance. The remainder of the 2008 CLIA Waiver Guidance, with exception of technical edits for consistency with the newly amended section V, has not been substantively changed. This update provides additional approaches for demonstrating that a test meets the criteria in 42 U.S.C. 263a(d)(3)(A) and includes FDA’s revised thinking regarding “the appropriate use of comparable performance between a waived user and a moderately complex laboratory user to demonstrate accuracy.”

The Secretary of Health and Human Services has delegated to FDA the authority to determine whether particular tests are “simple” and have “an insignificant risk of an erroneous result” under CLIA and thus are eligible for CLIA waiver (69 FR 22849, April 27, 2004). The Centers for Medicare & Medicaid Services is responsible for oversight of clinical laboratories, which includes issuing Certificates of Waiver. CLIA requires that clinical laboratories obtain a certificate before accepting materials derived from the human body for laboratory tests (42 U.S.C. 263a(b)).

The 2008 CLIA Waiver Guidance describes recommendations for device manufacturers about study design and analysis for CLIA Waiver by Application to support an FDA determination as to whether the device meets the statutory criteria for waiver.

On November 29, 2017, FDA issued a draft guidance titled “Select Updates for Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices.” This draft guidance proposed additional approaches for demonstrating that a test meets the criteria in 42 U.S.C. 263a(d)(3)(A). On November 29, 2018, FDA issued a revised draft guidance by the same title, which appeared in the Federal Register of November 29, 2018 (83 FR 61391), after considering comments received on the draft guidance issued November 29, 2017. This document revises section V of the guidance “Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 (CLIA) Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices,” issued on January 30, 2008.

II. Significance of Guidance

This guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidance represents the current thinking of FDA on “Recommendations for Clinical Laboratory Improvement Amendments of 1988 (CLIA) Waiver Applications for Manufacturers of In Vitro Diagnostic Devices.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

Following issuance of the 2014 guidance document entitled “Immediately in Effect Guidance Document: Product Labeling for Laparoscopic Power Morcellators,” (<https://www.fda.gov/regulatory-information/search-fda-guidance-documents/immediately-effect-guidance-document-product-labeling-laparoscopic-power-morcellators>) FDA continued to consider new scientific information and the input of stakeholders. Additional scientific information is available that stratifies the risks of an undetected uterine cancer in women with presumed fibroids based on age.

FDA also considered scientific information pertaining to the risk of spreading benign uterine tissue beyond the uterus during gynecologic surgeries when LPMs are used. Parasitic myomas and disseminated peritoneal leiomyomatosis, while benign, have been associated with the need for additional surgery due to symptoms
