Original Proposal in its entirety to add an additional disclosure requirement.

II. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

In its filing with the Commission, the Exchange included statements concerning the purpose of and basis for the proposed rule change and discussed any comments it received on the proposed rule change. The text of these statements may be examined at the places specified in Item IV below. The Exchange has prepared summaries, set forth in sections A, B, and C below, of the most significant aspects of such statements.

A. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement of the Purpose of, and Statutory Basis for, the Proposed Rule Change

1. Purpose

Nasdaq is filing this amendment to SR-NASDAQ-2020-062, which was published for comment by the Commission on September 16, 2020.⁸ The original proposal would allow certain acquisition companies listed under IM-5101-2 with a 15-day period after closing a business combination to provide evidence that the combined company satisfied the round lot shareholder requirement for initial listing at the time of the business combination. This Amendment No. 1 would require a company relying on this 15-day period to file a Form 8-K, were required by SEC rules, or issue a press release noting that the company is relying upon the additional 15 calendar days available under Nasdaq rules to demonstrate compliance.

In 2009, Nasdaq adopted additional listing requirements for a company whose business plan is to complete an initial public offering and engage in a merger or acquisition with one or more unidentified companies within a specific period of time ("Acquisition Companies").⁹ Such a company is required to keep at least 90% of the proceeds from its initial public offering in an escrow account and, until the company has completed one or more business combinations having an aggregate fair market value of at least 80% of the value of the escrow account, must meet the requirements for initial listing following each business combination.¹⁰ If a shareholder vote on the business combination is held, public shareholders voting against a business combination must have the right to convert their shares of common stock into a pro rata share of the aggregate amount then in the escrow account (net of taxes payable and amounts distributed to management for working capital purposes) if the business combination is approved and consummated.¹¹ If the combined company does not meet the initial listing requirements following a business combination, Nasdaq Staff will issue a Staff Delisting Determination under Nasdaq Rule 5810.

Under the existing rules, "following each business combination" with an Acquisition Company, the resulting company must satisfy all initial listing requirements. The rule does not provide a timetable for the company to demonstrate that it satisfies those requirements, however. Accordingly, Nasdaq proposes to modify the rule to specify if the Acquisition Company demonstrates that it will satisfy all requirements except the applicable round lot shareholder requirement, then the company will receive 15 calendar days following the closing to demonstrate that it satisfied the applicable round lot shareholder requirement immediately following the transaction's closing.

Ordinarily, in determining compliance with the round lot shareholder requirement at the time of a business combination, Nasdaq will review a company's public disclosures and information provided by the company about the transaction. For example, the merger agreement may result in the Acquisition Company issuing a round lot of shares to more than 300 holders of the target of the business combination at closing. If public information is not available that enables Nasdaq to determine compliance, Nasdaq will typically request that the company provide additional information such as registered shareholder lists from the company's transfer agent, data from Cede & Co. about shares held in street name, or data from broker-dealers and from third parties that distribute information such as proxy materials for the broker-dealers.¹² If the company can provide information demonstrating compliance before the business combination closes, no further information would be required.

However, Nasdaq has observed that in some cases it can be difficult for a company to obtain evidence demonstrating the number of shareholders that it has or will have following a business combination. As noted above, shareholders of an Acquisition Company may redeem or tender their shares until just before the time of the business combination, and the company may not know how many shareholders will choose to redeem until very close to the consummation of the business combination. In cases where the number of round lot shareholders is close to the applicable requirement, this could affect the ability for Nasdaq to determine compliance before the business combination closes. Accordingly, for a company that has demonstrated that it will satisfy all initial listing requirements except for the round lot shareholder requirement before consummating the business combination, Nasdaq will allow the company 15 calendar days after the closing of the business combination, if necessary, to demonstrate that it also complied with the round lot requirement at the time of the business combination. To be clear, the company must still demonstrate that it satisfied the round lot shareholder requirement immediately following the business combination; the proposal is merely giving the company 15 calendar days to provide evidence that it did.

Providing Acquisition Companies with an additional 15 days to demonstrate compliance with the round lot rule as of the date of the business combination will result in the continuation of the listing of companies that have completed a business combination but not yet demonstrated that they satisfied all initial listing requirements. For this reason, the Exchange proposes that each Acquisition Company that has not demonstrated compliance with the applicable round lot shareholder requirement on the date of the business combination's closing will be required to issue a press release or file a Form 8-K, if required, prior to closing of the business combination, stating that the company is relying upon the additional 15 calendar days available under Nasdaq rules to demonstrate compliance. The company also will be required to note that in the event it is unable to demonstrate compliance, the company will be subject to delisting. In the event the Acquisition Company does not make the required public disclosure prior to the closing of the business combination, Nasdaq will halt trading in the company's securities until such time as the required announcement is made public.

¹¹ See Nasdaq Rule IM-5101-2(d). If a shareholder vote on the business combination is not held, the company must provide all shareholders with the opportunity to redeem their shares for cash equal to their pro rata share of the aggregate amount then in the deposit account (net of taxes payable and amounts distributed to management for working capital purposes). Nasdaq Rule IM-5101-2(e).

Nasdaq believes that this proposal balances the burden placed on the Acquisition Company to obtain accurate shareholder information for the new entity and the need to ensure that a company that does not satisfy the initial listing requirements following a business combination enters the delisting process promptly. If the company does not evidence compliance within the proposed time period, Nasdaq staff would issue a delisting determination, which the company could appeal to an independent Hearings Panel as described in the 5800 Series of the Nasdaq Rules. Nasdaq also believes that the disclosure requirement will help provide transparency to investors about the status of the company during this time.

Finally, Nasdaq proposes a non-substantive change to eliminate a duplicate paragraph in paragraphs (d) and (e) of IM-5101-2 and to add a new paragraph designation.

2. Statutory Basis

The Exchange believes that its proposal is consistent with Section 6(b) of the Act,¹³ in general, and furthers the objectives of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act,¹⁴ in particular, in that it is designed to promote just and equitable principles of trade, to remove impediments to and perfect the mechanism of a free and open market and a national market system, and, in general to protect investors and the public interest, by imposing a specific timeline for Acquisition Companies to demonstrate that they will comply with the initial listing requirements following a business combination and allowing a reasonable period of time for the company to provide evidence that it complied with the round lot shareholder requirement at the time of the business combination.

The proposed rule would specify the time when an Acquisition Company must demonstrate compliance with the initial listing standards following the completion of a business combination, thereby enhancing investor protection. Specifically, it would require an Acquisition Company to provide evidence before completing the business combination that it will satisfy all requirements for initial listing, except for the round lot shareholder requirement. While the proposed rule would allow Acquisition Companies 15 calendar days, if needed, to provide evidence that they also complied with the round lot shareholder requirement at the time of the business combination, that additional time is a reasonable accommodation given both the difficulty companies face in identifying their shareholders and the ability for the Acquisition Company's shareholders to redeem their shares when the business combination is consummated. In that regard, Acquisition Companies are unlike other newly listing companies, which do not face redemptions and are not already listed and trading at the time they must demonstrate compliance. Importantly, the company must still demonstrate that it satisfied the round lot shareholder requirement immediately following the business combination. The proposed rule also requires an Acquisition Company utilizing the additional 15 day period after closing of the business combination to file a Form 8-K, were required by SEC rules, or issue a press release, prior to the closing of the business combination, noting that the company is relying upon the additional 15 calendar days available under Nasdaq rules to demonstrate compliance. The company must also note that in the event it is unable to demonstrate compliance, the company will be subject to delisting. In the event the Acquisition Company does not make the required disclosure prior to the listing of the combined company, Nasdaq will halt trading in the company's securities until such time as the required announcement is made public. The Exchange believes this disclosure requirement will ensure that prospective investors are aware that the company has not yet demonstrated that it meets the shareholder requirement and therefore may be delisted. In light of these requirements, Nasdaq believes that the proposed rule change appropriately balances the protection of prospective investors with the protection of shareholders of the Acquisition Company, the latter of whom would be harmed if Nasdaq issued a delisting determination at a time when the company did, in fact, satisfy all initial listing requirements but could not yet provide proof.

The proposed rule change is also consistent with Section 6(b)(7) of the Act in that it provides a fair procedure for the prohibition or limitation by the Exchange of any person with respect to access to services offered. The proposed rule change accounts for the particular difficulties encountered by Acquisition Companies when attempting to determine their total number of shareholders due to the ability of shareholders to redeem their shares. Acquisition Companies will still be required to demonstrate compliance with all initial listing standards immediately following the business combination, which is the initial listing of the combined company. This is no different from the requirements imposed on other newly listing companies.

The non-substantive changes to eliminate a duplicate paragraph in paragraphs (d) and (e) of IM-5101-2 and to add a new paragraph designation will improve the rule's readability and thereby remove an impediment to a free and open market and a national market system and help to better protect investors, which Nasdaq believes is consistent with the requirements of Section 6(b)(5) of the Act.¹⁵

B. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Burden on Competition

The Exchange does not believe that the proposed rule change will impose any burden on competition not necessary or appropriate in furtherance of the purposes of the Act. The proposed rule would clarify that a company listing in connection with a merger with an Acquisition Company must provide evidence before completing the business combination that it will satisfy all requirements for initial listing, although a reasonable accommodation would be made to allow the company to demonstrate compliance with the round lot shareholder requirement before issuing a delisting letter if that is the only requirement that the company cannot demonstrate compliance with before completing the business combination. This change is not expected to have any impact on competition.

C. Self-Regulatory Organization's Statement on Comments on the Proposed Rule Change Received From Members, Participants, or Others

On December 21, 2020, the Commission issued an Order Instituting Proceedings¹⁶ ("OIP") pursuant to Section 19(b)(2)(B) of the Act to determine whether to approve or disapprove the Original Proposal

March 10, 2021.

I. Introduction

On January 19, 2021, Long-Term Stock Exchange, Inc. (“LTSE” or “Exchange”) filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission (“Commission”) pursuant to Section 19(b)(1) of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934 (“Act”) ¹ and Rule 19b–4 thereunder,² a proposed rule change to amend Rule 14.501(d)(2)(A)(iii) to specify the process for enforcing compliance with LTSE Rule 14.425, which requires each listed company of the Exchange to adopt and publish “Long-Term Policies” as set forth in the rule. for enforcing compliance with LTSE Rule 14.425, which requires listed Companies⁴ to adopt and publish Long-Term Policies consistent with a defined set of principles (the “Principles”) articulated in LTSE Rule 14.425(b).⁵ As the Exchange states, LTSE Rule 14.425(a) requires Companies to adopt and publish the following policies: A Long-Term Stakeholder Policy; a Long-Term Strategy Policy; a Long-Term Compensation Policy; a Long-Term Board Policy; and a Long-Term Investor Policy (collectively, the “Policies”).⁶ LTSE Rule 14.425(b) establishes that Companies have flexibility in developing what they believe to be appropriate policies for their businesses on condition that each of the Policies must be consistent with the Principles.⁷ Under LTSE Rule 14.425(c), Companies also are required to review their Policies at least annually, make them publicly available free of charge on or through their websites, and provide related disclosures in certain filings with the Commission.⁸ In addition, the Exchange has represented to the Commission that it will enforce the provisions of LTSE Rule 14.425 by ensuring that each Company has addressed all of the requirements enumerated for each of the prescribed Policies, consistent with the Principles, and that each Company has made the Policies publicly available without cost.⁹

Currently, LTSE states that it enforces the provisions of LTSE Rule 14.425 through a number of rules in the LTSE Rulebook.¹⁰ The Exchange notes that, under LTSE Rule 14.101, the Exchange may at all times exercise its broad discretionary authority to suspend or delist Companies based on any event, condition, or circumstance that exists or
