

proved to be human, right mastoid process, resulting presumably, from a human cremation. The disposition of this specimen will be arranged with Anthony Andreas, the Native American consultant of the project from the Agua Caliente Cahuilla Band.” The human remains—a mastoid process—belong to an individual of unknown age and sex. No known individual was identified. No associated funerary objects are present.

According to the Webb Associates report, settlement at Seven Palms Ranch dates from 1150 to 1876 A.D. Seven Palms oasis was abandoned in the 1870s, when the population moved several miles southwest to Palm Springs Station. This group was identified as the Havinakiktum (“deep water hole”) clan of the Coyote Moiety (Strong 1929:91), whose religious affiliation was with the Morongo groups. The people of Seven Palms are known as the Hav ve.

Ethnohistoric evidence indicates that the area around Seven Palms Ranch was occupied by the Cahuilla tribe throughout prehistory, and the archeological record indicates Cahuilla presence in the protohistoric period. In recent times, the Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians filed a resolution on the village site with the Riverside County Assessor’s office.

History and Description of the Remains

On October 4, 1957, during the course of digging a reservoir, human remains representing, at minimum, two individuals were removed from the El Casco Dam Property (SBCM-118; CA-SBR-179) in San Bernardino County, CA. At some point, the human remains were comingled. One of the individuals is a child whose identity is unknown. The other individual, an adult, is identified as Juan Antonio Costo by a SBCM label reading "Remains of Juan Antonio." (When collected, the child's bones might have been assumed to be those of Juan Antonio Costo.) The 32 associated funerary objects are one epaulette, two lots of fabric fragments, one lot of beads, one bell, two rings, four coins, four buttons, three lots of varied ceramic, one lot of micro beads, one lot of mixed beads, five nails, three lots of fragmented metal, one lot of buttons, one spoon, one metal cup fragment, and one military belt buckle and hardware. The remains of the adult identified as Juan Antonio Costo were found with the epaulette in situ.

Juan Antonio Costo was the last Hereditary Chief of the Cahuilla. In 1851, he moved his band to the village of Sahat'pa, in San Timoteo Canyon, where the El Casco Dam Property is located. Sahat'pa, a historic Cahuilla village and cemetery occupied by Mountain Cahuillas, remained under the leadership of Juan Antonio from 1851 until his death during the smallpox epidemic of early 1863. A SBCMA publication relates that an American General Bean gifted Juan Antonio many presents, including an officer's army coat and epaulettes, "which he wore proudly on all state occasions."

The 1960's site record for CA-SBR-179 states that "[a]ll the dead of Juan Antonio's band" were found in burial contexts. The archeological field notes describe seven burials, and note that many others were heavily destroyed by tractor activity. (The location of the remains from those burials is unknown.) Subsequently, the site became registered California State Historic Site, No. 749.

Today, the Cahuilla are represented by the Agua Caliente Band of Cahuilla Indians of the Agua Caliente Indian Reservation, California; Augustine Band of Cahuilla Indians, California [previously listed as Augustine Band of Cahuilla Mission Indians of the Augustine Reservation]; Cabazon Band of Mission Indians, California; Cahuilla Band of Indians [previously listed as Cahuilla Band of Mission Indians of the Cahuilla Reservation, California]; Los Coyotes Band of Cahuilla and Cupeno Indians, California [previously listed as Los Coyotes Band of Cahuilla & Cupeno Indians of the Los Coyotes Reservation]; Morongo Band of Mission Indians, California [previously listed as Morongo Band of Cahuilla Mission Indians of the Morongo Reservation]; Ramona Band of Cahuilla, California [previously listed as Ramona Band or Village of Cahuilla Mission Indians of California]; Santa Rosa Band of Cahuilla Indians, California [previously listed as Santa Rosa Band of Cahuilla Mission Indians of the Santa Rosa Reservation]; and the Torres Martinez Desert Cahuilla Indians, California [previously listed as Torres-Martinez Band of Cahuilla Mission Indians of California]. Through consultation with representatives of the Santa Rosa Band of Cahuilla Indians, SBCM has identified Orlando Anthony Largo, Lorraine Lobbins, Leon Scribner, Lois Scribner Odom, and Vivian Hamilton as the lineal descendants of Juan Antonio Costo, and through consultation with representatives of the Cahuilla Band of Indians, SBCM has also identified a sixth lineal descendant of Juan Antonio Costo, Mara Costo.
