

competitors within those markets. The Commission acknowledges that robust investment in cyber security does not guarantee breaches will not occur. The likelihood of a data breach happening however, increases if Participants reduce potential additional investment in CAT data security including additional investment in cyber insurance coverage (should such coverage become available) or additional investment in the screening and monitoring of employees and contractors that have access to CAT Data. But the assurance of limited liability provided by the Proposed Amendment could disincentivize such actions. The Commission believes that Participants would remain incentivized to invest in CAT data security to some extent, even if the Proposed Amendment is approved because of the additional incentives discussed above, such as reputational damage, which would remain unaffected by the Proposed Amendment.¹⁸¹

The Commission further believes there might be additional competitive effects of the Proposed Amendment in the market for trading services. The Commission recognizes that Industry Members are not just the customers and members of the Participants, but are sometimes competitors of the Participants. Exchanges (all of which are Participants) compete in the market for trading services with off-exchange venues such as alternative trading systems (all of which are operated by Industry Members) and Industry Members that provide liquidity to orders off-exchange.¹⁸² Consequently, if the Proposed Amendment were to shift any of the expense of insuring against the risk of a CAT data breach from Participants to Industry Members, and if such expenses were more efficiently borne by Participants as discussed previously, the additional marginal costs incurred by Industry Members could disadvantage them in this competition to provide trading services. However, the Commission believes that this effect would be partially mitigated because, as discussed previously, that even under the Proposed Amendment, the Participants would remain incentivized to invest in CAT data security, and that Industry Members' need to invest in additional insurance would be mitigated by their own use of limitation of liability agreements with their own customers.¹⁸³

C. Capital Formation

The Commission believes that the Proposed Amendment might have negative effects on capital formation in markets in which Industry Members compete, but believes these effects would be partially mitigated.

The Participants argue that adopting the proposed amendment would avoid inefficiencies by avoiding the increased costs that would otherwise arise,¹⁸⁴ namely over investment in cyber security and insurance beyond what would be optimal, and underinvestment in adoption of policies or technologies that decrease costs or increase efficiencies as described in the CRA Paper. The Participants argue that avoiding these issues, by limiting liability, would promote capital formation in the U.S. securities markets. While the Commission acknowledges that an inappropriate level of risk-aversion might result in these effects, if the Participants believe, as asserted in their filing, that they have regulatory immunity, the Commission believes these effects would be small because the potential shift in liability from the proposed amendments would be far less significant than anticipated in the CRA Paper.

It is possible that capital formation could be negatively impacted by an inefficient insurance burden on Industry Members as described in the Lewis Paper.¹⁸⁵ However, even in cases in which Participants' regulatory immunity would not apply, the Commission does not believe the Proposed Amendment would significantly increase Industry Members' insurance burden because, as discussed previously, many Industry Members have agreements limiting their liability with their own customers, and not all Industry Members have customers that might initiate litigation.¹⁸⁶

The Commission recognizes, however, that the risk of a data breach can impact capital formation through routes other than inefficient insurance costs and underinvestment. If Industry Members believe that the proposed amendment would significantly reduce Participants' incentives to invest in CAT security, Industry Members may be less incentivized to invest in intellectual property that could be compromised by a data breach, potentially reducing capital formation in liquidity provision on exchanges or in proprietary trading activities. The Commission believes this risk is partially mitigated because the

Participants are still incentivized to secure CAT Data by other incentives that are not affected by the proposed amendment.¹⁸⁷

VI. Conclusion

For the reasons set forth above, the Commission does not find, pursuant to Section 11A of the Exchange Act, and Rule 608(b)(2) thereunder, that the Proposed Amendment is consistent with the requirements of the Exchange Act and the rules and regulations thereunder applicable to an NMS plan amendment.

It is therefore ordered, pursuant to Section 11A of the Exchange Act, and Rule 608(b)(2) thereunder, that the Proposed Amendment (File No. 4-698) be, and hereby is, disapproved.

By the Commission.
