SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The ACPAC was initially established as a Federal advisory committee by the Department as mandated by the FAA Modernization and Reform Act of 2012. The statutory termination date for the Committee has been extended several times, most recently by the FAA Reauthorization Act of 2018 (2018 FAA Act), to the current termination date of September 20, 2023. The ACPAC evaluates current aviation consumer protection programs and provides recommendations to the Secretary for improving them, as well as recommending any additional consumer protections that may be needed.

II. Purpose of the Meetings and Agendas

A. December 2, 2021 Meeting

Two topics will be discussed at the December 2, 2021 meeting—(1) Airline Ticket Refunds and (2) Information for Consumers Adversely Affected by Airline Delays or Cancellations. Regarding airline ticket refunds, the Department has consistently interpreted 49 U.S.C. 41712, which prohibits U.S. air carriers, foreign air carriers, and ticket agents from engaging in unfair practices in the sale of air transportation, to require carriers and ticket agents to provide requested refunds to passengers when a carrier cancels or significantly changes a flight to, from, or within the United States. The Department has not defined the terms “significant change” and “cancellation” in regulation or statute. The Department has announced a rulemaking¹ that would clarify in regulation the Department's longstanding interpretation of the refund requirement. In addition, the rulemaking would also address protections for consumers who are unable to travel due to government restrictions. The ACPAC will consider potential definitions of the terms “significant change” and “cancellation” and the issue of protections for consumers who are unable to travel due to government restrictions or advisories.

Regarding reporting the causes of airline delays and cancellations, Section 413 of the 2018 FAA Act directs the Department to review the categorization by reporting airlines of the causes of delays and cancellations, including, among other things, whether it is an unfair or deceptive practice for an air carrier to inform a passenger that a flight is delayed or cancelled due to weather alone when other factors are involved. Section 413 states that the Department may consult with the ACPAC to assist in conducting the review and providing recommendations on improving the quality and quantity of information provided to passengers adversely affected by a cancellation or delay. At the December 2, 2021 meeting, the Committee will consider the quality and quantity of information on causes of airline delays or cancellations provided to passengers adversely affected by an airline cancellation or delay, focusing on whether it is an unfair or deceptive practice for an air carrier to inform a passenger that a flight is delayed or cancelled due to weather alone when other factors are involved.

B. March 21 and 22, 2022 Meeting

Two topics, one continuing from the December meeting and one new topic, will be discussed at the March 21 and 22, 2022 meeting—(1) Airline Ticket Refunds (continued) and (2) Enhancing Consumer Access to Airline Flight Information. Regarding airline ticket refunds, the Committee will continue to consider this topic and will discuss the Department's Airline Ticket Refunds Notice of Proposed Rulemaking which the Department anticipates will be issued prior to the March 21 and 22, 2022 meeting.

Regarding the second topic, the Executive Order on Promoting Competition in the American Economy, issued on July 9, 2021 (E.O. 14036), directed the Department to take action to protect consumers and promote competition. Specifically, the Department is directed, among other things, to “promote enhanced transparency and consumer safeguards, as appropriate and consistent with applicable law, including through potential rulemaking, enforcement actions, or guidance documents, with the aims of: (1) Enhancing consumer access to airline flight information so that consumers can more easily find a broader set of available flights, including by new or lesser known airlines; and . . .” The ACPAC will consider the topic of enhancing access to airline flight information so that consumers can more easily find a broader set of available flights.

III. Public Participation

The meetings will be open to the public; however, attendance may be limited due to constraints of the virtual platform and/or physical meeting space. Register for the December 2, 2021 meeting at https://usdot.zoomgov.com/webinar/register/WN_6X7_jo0CTvia3JfU9XR82A. To register for the
