SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: One of the foundations of the National Levee Safety Program is stakeholder engagement with those who are responsible for, are impacted by, or have interest in levees and related policies including federal/state/local governments, tribes, levee owners/operators, businesses, floodplain managers and residents. The goals for the stakeholder engagement process are to:

1. Understand the needs of the stakeholders this program is intended to support;
2. provide opportunities for meaningful input to shape decisions and outcomes on program design, components, and products; and,
3. ensure that the unique challenges related to levees faced by disadvantaged communities and tribes are well understood and incorporated into solutions.

The purpose of the National Levee Safety Program is to improve the way levees are managed throughout the United States and its territories in order to reduce disaster suffering and improve the resiliency of communities behind levees. Managing flood risk is a shared responsibility between federal, tribal, state, and local entities. USACE and FEMA are interested in the views of the public regarding how the National Levee Safety Program and each of its components can be implemented to best serve those responsible for and impacted by flood risk management efforts. The four major components of the National Levee Safety Program are intended to work together to accomplish the goals of the program: National Levee Safety Guidelines; Integrated Levee Management; National Levee Database and Data Collection; and Implementation Support. There are fact sheets and additional information introducing each of these components at www.leveesafety.org.

USACE and FEMA will be seeking feedback from stakeholders at various phases of the program's development over the next 2-3 years. Phase 1 is starting during the Winter of 2021 with a focus on gathering initial input on the purpose and scope of each of the components of the National Levee Safety Program to better understand the needs and priorities of the public. Phase 2 is anticipated to occur during the Summer of 2022 with a focus on soliciting feedback on priorities and options identified during Phase 1 (scoping). Phase 3 is anticipated to occur during the Fall of 2023 with a focus on soliciting feedback on draft program implementation products. During each phase, stakeholders will be able to submit comments through a variety of methods. Each phase will have an open comment period under docket number COE-2021-0007. For more information about the program, its key components, and opportunities to get involved please visit www.leveesafety.org.

During Phase 1 of program development, USACE will be hosting seven public meetings and four public webinars to provide an overview of the program and its key components and opportunities for submitting feedback. There will be a 100-person limit for each public meeting and webinar. To attend an in-person public meeting, you must be fully vaccinated for COVID-19 and may be required to provide proof of vaccination before entry into the meeting. For information about the public meetings and webinars, including how to register to attend, visit www.leveesafety.org.

2. Do you understand the general approach for the development of the program (e.g., stakeholder engagement, key components, etc.)? If not, what is unclear? Any suggestions for improvements?
3. What is the single most important challenge related to levees you think this program should try to help address? Do you see it adequately addressed in this approach?

National Levee Safety Guidelines

4. Other than funding, what are the biggest barriers states might have in standing up levee safety programs?

6. Are there any federal programs that are hampering your ability or providing a disincentive to adequately perform flood risk or levee management activities? If so, please explain?

7. Where do you see opportunities for federal programs to be adjusted/realigned/reprioritized to better support flood risk management/levee safety in communities with levees?

National Levee Database and Data Collection

1. What are the most important decisions you need to make to improve flood risk management decisions in your community or on your levee? What data do you most need to support these decisions?

2. How might USACE encourage participation of levee owners or states in either providing levee information or participating in USACE-led levee inspections and risk assessments?

3. What types of levee information is most meaningful to people who live and work behind levees? What role can/should the National Levee Database play in providing this information?

These scoping questions, along with background information on the National Levee Safety Program and its key components, can be found at www.leveesafety.org.
