Analysis of Proposed Consent Order To Aid Public Comment

The Federal Trade Commission ("FTC" or "Commission") has accepted, subject to final approval, an agreement containing a consent order from Credit Karma, LLC ("Respondent"). The proposed consent order has been placed on the public record for 30 days for receipt of comments from interested persons. Comments received during this period will become part of the public record. After 30 days, the Commission will again review the agreement and the comments received and will decide whether it should withdraw from the agreement or make final the agreement's proposed order.

This matter involves Respondent's advertisements and recommendations for third-party financial products. According to the complaint, between February 2018 and April 2021, through its website, mobile app, and email marketing campaigns, Respondent has represented in advertisements and recommendations that consumers have been "pre-approved" for third-party financial products, such as credit cards. Despite these preapproval claims, financial product companies have not already approved these consumers. In fact, as alleged in the complaint, for many of these offers, almost a third of consumers who received and applied for "pre-approved" offers were subsequently denied based on the financial product companies' underwriting review. The complaint further alleges that Respondent knew that its prominent pre-approval claims conveyed false "certainty" to consumers and employed it deliberately to influence consumers' behavior. To the extent Respondent revealed that consumers' likelihood of getting approval was anything less than certain, it has done so by making additional false claims that consumers' likelihood of approval is 90%, or by using buried disclaimers.

The proposed consent order contains provisions designed to prevent Respondent from making deceptive claims about approval, pre-approval, or consumers' approval likelihood or odds in the future. Part I prohibits misleading or unsubstantiated claims about approval, including pre-approval, as well as a consumer's odds or likelihood of being approved. Part II requires Respondent to pay $3,000,000 in monetary relief. Part III contains additional requirements regarding the monetary relief. Part IV requires Respondent to provide sufficient customer information to enable the Commission to administer consumer redress.

Parts V through VI are reporting and compliance provisions. Part V requires Respondent to acknowledge receipt of the order, to provide a copy of the order to certain current and future principals, officers, directors, and employees, and to obtain an acknowledgement from each such person that they have received a copy of the order. Part VI requires Respondents to file a compliance report within one year after the order becomes final and to notify the Commission within 14 days of certain changes that would affect compliance with the order. Part VII requires Respondent to maintain certain records, including records necessary to demonstrate compliance with the order. Part VIII requires Respondents to submit additional compliance reports when requested by the Commission and to permit the Commission or its representatives to interview Respondents' personnel.

Finally, Part IX is a "sunset" provision, terminating the order after twenty (20) years, with certain exceptions.

The purpose of this analysis is to aid public comment on the proposed order. It is not intended to constitute an official interpretation of the proposed order or to modify its terms in any way.

By direction of the Commission.

Joel Christie,

Acting Secretary.
