

Call Report in response to ASU 2022–02 and will consider these comments at that time. This proposal would follow the standard notice and comment process pursuant to the PRA.

The other commenter requested that the agencies expand the level of detail on interest and fee income collected in the Call Report on Schedule RI, Income Statement, to align with each loan category reported on Schedule RC–C, Part I, Loans and Leases. The agencies are declining to make any changes to the level of detail on loan income at this time. The current level of detail strikes the appropriate balance between the information necessary for monitoring the condition and performance of individual institutions and the industry with the effort required by those organizations to separately collect and report interest and fee income information by loan category.

C. Proposed Instructional Clarifications to Schedule RC–T, Fiduciary and Related Services

In response to questions received on the reporting of managed and non-managed assets and number of managed and non-managed accounts on Schedule RC–T, Fiduciary and Related Services, and to promote consistent reporting across all institutions, the agencies are proposing to clarify the instructions for these items as of the September 30, 2023, report date. Specifically:

- Reporting of life insurance trusts. The agencies have observed inconsistent reporting of life insurance trusts and are clarifying that life insurance trusts, other than term life insurance policies that have nominal value, should be reported in Schedule RC–T, item 4, “Personal trust and agency accounts.” Relatedly, the agencies are proposing to clarify in the “Fiduciary and Related Assets” section of the Schedule RC–T instructions that the cash surrender value of a life insurance policy generally may be used when calculating the value of the account.

- Classification of investment advisory employee benefit accounts. The agencies have observed inconsistent reporting of employee benefit accounts for which the institution provides investment services or investment advice for a fee and whether those accounts are classified as managed or non-managed in item 5, “Employee benefit and retirement-related trust and agency accounts.” The agencies are proposing to clarify in Schedule RC–T, items 5.a through 5.c, that accounts for which the institution serves as either trustee or agent and provides investment management services, or provides investment advice for a fee, should be reported in one of the subcategories of item 5. The agencies are further proposing to clarify that accounts for which the institution serves as a directed trustee or provides investment advice for a fee should be reported under non-managed accounts. In addition, the agencies are proposing to clarify that employee benefit accounts for which the institution provides investment management or investment advisory services should not be reported in Schedule RC–T, item 7, “Investment management and investment advisory agency accounts.”

- Primary relationship test. The agencies have observed inconsistent reporting of trust accounts for which the institution has both a fiduciary and custodial relationship. The current instructions for Schedule RC–T, item 11, “Custody and safekeeping accounts” indicate that the institution should report the account under the primary relationship. The agencies are proposing to clarify in the instructions for this item that when an institution has both a fiduciary and custodial relationship, the fiduciary relationship is the primary relationship. In this case, the account should be reported as a fiduciary account in Schedule RC–T, items 4 through 9, and it should not be reported as a custodial account in item 11.

- Back-office services. The agencies have received questions about whether accounts for which the institution provides back-office or operational services for a third party, but does not hold the account, should be reported along with custody and safekeeping accounts. The agencies are proposing to revise the “Fiduciary and Related Assets” section of the Schedule RC–T instructions to clarify that accounts for which the institution only provides back-office or operational services and the accounts or assets are not held by the institution should not be reported in Schedule RC–T.

The agencies are proposing to incorporate these clarifications starting with the September 30, 2023, report date. The agencies would expect institutions that are not currently reporting consistent with these clarifications to incorporate the clarifications on a best-efforts basis over the four subsequent quarterly reports.

III. Timing

The revisions to the Call Report and the FFIEC 002 resulting from the statutorily mandated full review related to certain loss-sharing agreements with the FDIC, negative amortization loans, reverse mortgages, and MMLF items, and the proposed clarifications to the instructions for Schedule RC–T, will be effective as of the September 30, 2023, report date, subject to OMB approval. The agencies plan to discontinue the optional tax worksheet as part of the implementation of the Call Report process changes starting with the June 30, 2023, report date.
