

following a tentative decision by EPA to deny the section 301(h) modification request. In its application revision, the POTW usually corrects deficiencies and changes proposed treatment levels as well as outfall and diffuser locations. The application revision is a voluntary submission for the applicant, and a letter of intent to revise the application must be submitted within 45 days of EPA's tentative decision (40 CFR 125.59(f)). EPA needs this information to evaluate revised applications to determine whether the modified discharge will ensure protection of water quality, biological habitats, and beneficial uses of receiving waters.

(4) State determination and state certification information: For revised or renewal applications for CWA section 301(h) modifications, EPA needs a state determination. The state determines whether all state laws (including water quality standards) are satisfied. This determination helps ensure that water quality, biological habitats, and beneficial uses of receiving waters are protected. Additionally, the state must determine if the applicant's discharge will result in additional treatment, pollution control, or any other requirement for any other point or nonpoint sources. This process allows the state's views to be taken into account when EPA reviews the CWA section 301(h) application and develops permit conditions. For revised and renewed CWA section 301(h) modification applications, EPA also needs the CWA section 401(a)(1) certification information to ensure that any Federal license or permit meets all state water quality laws it issues with a CWA section 301(h) modification, and the state accepts all the permit conditions. This information is how the state can exercise its authority to concur with or deny a CWA section 301(h) decision made by an EPA regional office.

Form Numbers: None.

Respondents/affected entities: Entities potentially affected by this action are those municipalities that currently have CWA section 301(h) modifications from secondary treatment or have applied for a renewal of a CWA section 301(h) modification, and the states within which these municipalities are located.

Respondent's obligation to respond: Voluntary, required to obtain or retain a benefit.

Estimated number of respondents: 31 (total).

Frequency of response: From once every five years, to varies case-by-case, depending on the category of information.

Total estimated burden: 44,985 hours (per year). Burden is defined at 5 CFR 1320.03(b).

Total estimated cost: $1.3 million (per year), which includes $0 annualized capital or operation & maintenance costs.

Changes in the Estimates: A decrease of hours in the total estimated respondent burden is expected compared with the ICR currently approved by OMB. EPA expects the numbers will decrease due to changes in respondent universe, use of technology, etc.
