Federal Tort Claims Act—Technical Changes; Correction

AGENCY: Bureau of Prisons, Justice.

ACTION: Correcting amendment.

SUMMARY: In this document, the Bureau of Prisons (Bureau) corrects inadvertent errors and omissions in its regulations caused by errors in the interim final rule titled “Federal Tort Claims Act—Technical Changes” published in the Federal Register on November 7, 2023.

DATES: This correcting amendment is effective December 20, 2023.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Daniel J. Crooks III, Assistant General Counsel/Rules Administrator, at Legislative & Correctional Issues

Branch, Office of General Counsel, Bureau of Prisons, 320 First Street NW, Washington, DC 20534 or at (202) 353–4885.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:Need for Correction

On November 7, 2023, the Bureau published an interim final rule (IFR) in the Federal Register at 88 FR 76656 that made technical changes to how the Bureau processes Federal Tort Claims Act (FTCA) claims. This document corrects inadvertent errors and omissions in its regulations caused by errors in that rule.

First, this document revises the headings of two paragraphs in § 543.31 to conform with the statement-like form of other paragraph headings we amended in the IFR. Thus, the heading of § 543.31(a) should be changed from “Who may file a claim?” to “Claimant,” and the heading of § 543.31(b) should be changed from “Where do I obtain a form for filing a claim?” to “Claim form.”

Second, the third instruction of the IFR revised paragraphs (a) through (d) and (f) of § 543.32. Paragraphs (g) and (h) were missing from that instruction, while they were correctly included in the amendatory language. In addition, the heading to paragraph (e) needs to be changed to conform with the declaratory headings of the other paragraphs. Finally, paragraph (i) needs to be deleted because, with the revisions to the other paragraphs, paragraph (i) is redundant.

Safety Program for Surface Mobile Equipment

AGENCY: Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA), Department of Labor.

ACTION: Final rule.

SUMMARY: The Mine Safety and Health Administration (MSHA or the Agency) is requiring that mine operators develop, implement, and update, periodically or when necessary, a written safety program for surface mobile equipment (excluding belt conveyors) at surface mines and surface areas of underground mines. The written safety program must be developed and updated with input from miners and their representatives. The written safety program must include actions mine operators will take to identify hazards and risks to reduce accidents, injuries, and fatalities related to surface mobile equipment. The final rule offers mine operators flexibility to devise a safety program that is appropriate for their specific mining conditions and operations.

DATES:

Effective date: The final rule is effective January 19, 2024.

Compliance date: Compliance with this final rule is not required until July 17, 2024

I. Introduction

A. Regulatory Authority

This final rule is issued under section 101 of the Federal Mine Safety and Health Act of 1977 (Mine Act), as amended. 30 U.S.C. 811.

B. Background

A variety of mining equipment is used at surface mines or in surface areas of underground mines. Surface mining vehicles can be very large (many can be several stories tall) and are capable of destroying smaller vehicles that cannot be seen by the vehicle operators. Accidents involving mining equipment are a leading cause of fatalities at mines, although fatalities involving powered haulage equipment, a type of mobile equipment, decreased in 2022.^{1 2} To reduce the number of accidents, injuries and fatalities at mines, MSHA implemented several powered haulage initiatives—for example, conducting safety awareness campaigns, providing powered haulage guidance and technical assistance, and disseminating training materials and best-practices information that addresses powered haulage safety. Despite these efforts, in 2023, machinery (mobile) accidents have still accounted for a significant number of mining fatalities.

On July 20, 2021, for example, MSHA hosted a national "Stand Down for Safety Day" to focus on powered haulage accidents and vehicle rollovers to help educate miners, save lives, and prevent injuries.³ On that day, Mine Safety and Health Enforcement (MSHE) and Educational Field and Small Mine Services (EFSMS) staff visited mines to meet with miners and operators to increase awareness of powered haulage hazards and the need to be familiar with and follow mine-safety best practices.

On February 28, 2022, MSHA announced its "Take Time, Save Lives" campaign to remind mine operators to train miners and ensure miners can take their time to prevent accidents and injuries and to save lives.⁴ As part of the campaign, mines across the country received a poster to display at mine sites with steps operators and miners can take to stay safe, including actions related to working around powered haulage equipment and wearing seat belts.

In addition, over the years, MSHA has developed a wide variety of mine safety and health materials and has made them available on the Agency's website (<http://www.msha.gov>) and mobile app.⁵ These materials are intended to assist trainers and mine operators in promoting a safe and healthy environment, and among other topics, they cover safety topics related to mobile equipment at surface mines. For example, MSHA issued Powered Haulage Equipment Guidance in 2021 intended to help prevent accidents associated with working with, on, or

⁵ MSHA's Miner Safety & Health App gives miners and mine operators instant access to information that can help keep them safe and healthy on the job. The app provides important safety alerts, safety and health best practices that apply to their daily work, information on their rights and responsibilities, and the ability to contact MSHA with a question or to report an accident or hazard. The app is available for free on Android and iPhone mobile devices and can also be found at the respective app stores by searching for "Miner Safety & Health."
