The William T. Pecora Award is presented annually to individuals or teams using satellite or aerial remote sensing that make outstanding contributions toward understanding the Earth (land, oceans, and air), educating the next generation of scientists; informing decision makers; or supporting natural or human-induced disaster response. The award is sponsored jointly by the Department of the Interior and NASA.

The award was established in 1974 to honor the memory of Dr. William T. Pecora, former director of the U.S. Geological Survey and Under Secretary, Department of the Interior. Dr. Pecora was a motivating force behind the establishment of a program for civil remote sensing of the Earth from space. His early vision and support helped establish what we know today as the Landsat satellite program. The purpose of the award is to recognize individuals or groups working in the field of remote sensing of the Earth. National and international nominations are accepted from public and private sector individuals, teams, organizations, and professional societies.

Nomination packages include three sections: a cover sheet, a summary statement, and supplemental materials. The cover sheet includes professional contact information. The summary statement is limited to two pages and describes the nominee’s achievements in the scientific and technical remote sensing community; contributions leading to successful practical applications of remote sensing; and/or major breakthroughs in remote sensing science or technology. Nominations may include up to 12 pages of supplemental materials such as a resume, a publications list, letters of endorsement, etc., which highlight the specific individual or group’s achievements. These should be peer-reviewed and documented in industry-recognized and scientifically credible publications.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

The BLM created the Wild Horse and Burro Program (WHBP) to implement the Wild-Free Roaming Horses and Burros Act, passed by Congress in 1971. Broadly, the law declares wild horses and burros to be "living symbols of the historic and pioneer spirit of the West" and stipulates that the BLM and the U.S. Forest Service (FS) have the responsibility to manage and protect herds in their respective jurisdictions within areas where wild horses and burros were found roaming in 1971.

To maintain wild horses and burros in good condition and protect the health of our public lands, the BLM must manage the population growth of wild horse and burro herds. Without natural population controls, such as predation, herds can increase at a rate of up to 20 percent annually, doubling in size in just 4 to 5 years, if not appropriately managed. Population control must be implemented to protect scarce and fragile resources in the arid West and ensure healthy animals. To carry out this mission, the BLM controls herd growth through the application of fertility measures, such as birth control, and through the periodic removals of excess animals and the placement of those animals into private care.

The BLM manages the WHBP, which includes records on individuals covered by two SORNs. The INTERIOR/BLM-28,

Adopt a Wild Horse, 51 FR 25111 (July 10, 1986), modifications published at 73 FR 17376 (April 1, 2008) and 86 FR 50156 (September 7, 2021). SORN covers the management of placing excess animals into private care through its adoption and sales programs. The INTERIOR/LLM-37, Wild Horse & Burro Program System (WHBPS), 72 FR 67956 (December 3, 2007), modifications published at 73 FR 17376 (April 1, 2008) and 86 FR 50156 (September 7, 2021), SORN covers the overall management, protection, and study of wild and free-roaming horses and burros on public lands in the United States.

During an annual review of these notices, the BLM determined that these two systems were managed by one system manager located in the WHBP Office, shared the same legal authorities, and generally had the same overarching purposes, categories of individuals and records, and retention. In an effort to streamline WHBP functions, improve consistency, and eliminate duplicative content, the BLM is proposing to consolidate these two systems of records into one, and change the system name from INTERIOR/LLM-37, Wild Horse & Burro Program System (WHBPS), to INTERIOR/BLM-37, Wild Horse and Burro Program (WHBP), to reflect the program-level management and clearly describe the records collected, used, and/or maintained in support of the overall WHBP. This notice also reorganizes the sections and provides updates to all sections to accurately reflect the scope of the new consolidated system of records in accordance with the Privacy Act of 1974 and OMB Circular A-108, Federal Agency Responsibilities for Review, Reporting, and Publication under the Privacy Act. The INTERIOR/BLM-28, Adopt a Wild Horse, SORN will be rescinded after the publication and comment period for the new consolidated SORN.

This revised notice combines the records in the two previous systems of records under one program SORN; updates the system location to reflect a centralized point of contact for the program; updates authorities to properly cite to all the specific programmatic authorities for collecting, maintaining, using, and disseminating the information under the WHBP; adds a new section to describe the purposes of the system; expands on the categories of individuals and categories of records to more accurately reflect the types of individuals and administrative records contained within the system; updates the record sources to include a more inclusive list; provides updates for the storage, retrieval, safeguards, and
