SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Abstract

The SABIT Program of the Department of Commerce's International Trade Administration (ITA), is a key element in the U.S. Government's efforts to support the economic transition of Eurasia (the former Soviet Union) and to support economic growth in other regions of the world, including countries in Europe, South Asia, and the Middle East, et al. SABIT develops and implements two-week training programs in the United States for groups of up to 20 business and government professionals from Eurasia and other regions. These professionals meet with U.S. government agencies, non-governmental organizations and private sector companies in order to learn about various business practices and principles. This unique private sector-U.S. Government partnership was created in order to tap into the U.S. private sector's expertise and to assist developing regions in their transition to market-based economies while simultaneously boosting trade between the United States and other countries. SABIT also develops and implements virtual events for its alumni and other participants that provide industry-specific training on best practices for business and management and fosters contacts with U.S. organizations. Participant applications are needed to enable SABIT to find the most qualified participants for the training programs. Participant pre-program surveys and post-program surveys provide insight as to what the participants have learned, and they are used to improve the content and administration of future programs. Such monitoring and evaluations is required by law (Foreign Aid and Transparency and Accountability Act of 2016). Alumni success story reports/surveys track the success of the program as regards to business ties between the U.S. and the countries SABIT covers. These alumni surveys also serve to provide evaluation information as required under the Foreign Aid and Transparency and Accountability Act of 2016).

The closing date for participant applications is based upon the starting date of the program and is published with the application and on the program's website at www.trade.gov/sabit-program. Pursuant to section 632(a) of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1961, as amended, funding for the programs will be provided through the Agency for International Development (AID).

The SABIT Program has revised the collection instruments. The instruments are very similar to those used by SABIT in past years. However, some wording has been changed to reflect the changing needs of SABIT over time. The changes are relatively minor and most of them are rephrasing of wording. Instructions for filling out the form, methods of submission, and the order of questions have been revised on the Participant Application. These revisions are not expected to increase the response time to complete the instruments. SABIT
