The data will also be used to produce descriptive statistics on the test topics, assess the impact on other questions on the survey that have changed, and gain insight into terminology by analyzing write-in responses and responses to qualitative questions asked in the test. Data will be assessed by mode of response as well as type of respondent (proxy or self-reported data), in addition to other sub-groups of interest.

Because the questions being tested under this clearance have yet to be asked in the American Community Survey, the data gathered will not be considered official statistics of the Census Bureau or other Federal agencies. Test results will be included in research reports that will be published on the Census Bureau’s website. Results may also be prepared for presentations at professional meetings and conferences or for publication in professional journals. SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:I. Abstract

The Benchmark Survey of Financial Services Transactions between U.S. Financial Services Providers and Foreign Persons (Form BE-180) is a periodic survey, conducted every five years for reporting years ending in “4” and “9”, that collects data from U.S. persons who engage in international trade in covered financial services transactions. This mandatory benchmark survey, conducted under the authority of the International Investment and Trade in Services Survey Act, and section 5408 of the Omnibus Trade and Competitiveness Act of 1988, covers the universe of transactions in financial services between U.S. and foreign persons. A U.S. person means any individual, branch, partnership, associated group, association, estate, trust, corporation, or other organization (whether or not organized under the laws of any State), resident in the United States or subject to the jurisdiction of the United States. A U.S. person must report if they had transactions with foreign persons in the categories covered by the survey during the 2024 calendar year. For U.S. persons that had combined transactions that were $3 million or less in the financial services categories covered by the survey for fiscal year 2024, a completed benchmark would include totals for each type of transaction in which they engaged. A U.S. person whose combined transactions with foreign persons exceeded $3 million in the financial services categories covered by the survey for fiscal year 2024, is required to provide data on the total transactions of each of the covered types of financial services transactions and must disaggregate the totals by country and by relationship to the foreign counterparty (foreign affiliate, foreign parent group, or unaffiliated).

The data are needed to monitor U.S. trade in financial services, to analyze the impact of these cross-border services on the U.S. and foreign economies, to compile and improve the U.S. economic accounts, to support U.S. commercial policy on trade in services, to conduct trade promotion, and to improve the ability of U.S. businesses to identify and evaluate market opportunities. The data are used in estimating the trade in financial services component of the U.S. international transactions accounts (ITAs) and national income and product accounts (NIPAs).

The Bureau of Economic Analysis (BEA) is proposing to make modifications to the survey for 2024 to further align BEA's statistics with international guidelines and to collect additional information that can be used to improve the current estimation methodologies for published financial services transactions, increasing the quality and usefulness of BEA's statistics on trade in financial services. To evaluate the feasibility of these changes, BEA conducted outreach to a sample of nine respondents to the Quarterly Survey of Financial Services Transactions between U.S. Financial Services Providers and Foreign Persons (BE-185). Reporter feedback gathered substantiated the ability of the respondents to comply with the additional data requests, and that the survey changes should not impose a material increase in reporting burden.

BEA does not plan to change the exemption levels used for the previous benchmark survey for 2019.

BEA proposes to:

(1) Add a question on employment size class. This information would be required of all survey respondents to aid in identifying the number of small businesses reporting on the survey, and the volume of services trade data reported by small businesses. These questions will help BEA's broader effort to develop statistics to better track the economic health and contributions on the nation's small businesses.

(2) Add a question to collect information on the largest states, districts, or territories (up to three) for exports and imports of services. This information would be required of all survey respondents and will contribute to BEA's effort to produce estimates of the value of exports and imports of services by U.S. state for the first time.

(3) Modify the remote services schedules (C and D) to better capture trade in digitally delivered services. This will improve BEA's estimates of U.S. trade in information and communications technology (ICT) and potentially ICT-enabled services.

BEA will also align BE-180 transaction categories to incorporate two minor modifications made to the BE-185 survey beginning with 2021 reporting: collecting brokerage services in the three separate categories of (1) equity, (2) debt, and (3) other; and financial advisory and custody services in two distinct categories for (1) advisory, and (2) custody services. BEA also plans to eliminate question 15, asking if the U.S. Reporter had cryptocurrency-related transactions. This item is no longer necessary for BEA's effort to measure financial services transactions associated with crypto currency.

BEA estimates there will be no material impact on the average filing burden. Proposals one and two should not affect burden because BEA believes this data to be readily available in reporter records or can be provided by many respondents based on recall, without the need to search existing records. Additionally, proposal three is a minor modification to data previously collected on the 2019 BE-180 benchmark survey. The codes being aligned with transaction categories on the BE-185 survey will have no material impact on burden because reporters are already reporting in these categories on the BE-185 survey or have data readily available (those companies only subject to filing in a benchmark year) since the requirement was aggregate reporting on the previous BE-180 filing.

The language in the instructions and definitions will be reviewed and adjusted as necessary to clarify survey requirements.

II. Method of Collection

BEA will contact potential respondents by mail in January of 2025 to announce the upcoming benchmark survey. Respondents would then be notified in May 2025 that a completed BE-180 form is due July 31, 2025. Reports would be required from each U.S. person that had transactions in the covered financial services with foreign persons during 2024. A response is required from persons subject to the reporting requirements of the BE-180 Benchmark Survey of Financial Services Transactions between U.S. Financial Services Providers and Foreign Persons, whether or not they are contacted by BEA.

BEA offers its electronic filing option, the eFile system, for use in reporting on Form BE-180. For more information about eFile, go to www.bea.gov/efile. In addition, BEA posts all its survey forms and reporting instructions on its website, www.bea.gov/ssb. These may be downloaded, completed, printed, and submitted via fax or mail.
