Federal Records Management: GAO Concurrence

AGENCY: National Archives and Records Administration (NARA).

ACTION: Direct rule.

SUMMARY: The National Archives and Records Administration (NARA) is amending our records management regulations to limit the role of the Government Accountability Office (GAO) in approving certain deviations in agency records schedules. Under the updated regulation, Federal agencies will only require GAO approval for records schedules that propose retention periods for accountable officer records that are shorter than the retention periods provided in the General Records Schedule (GRS). 1.1, item 010 for Accountable Officer records. GAO approval will no longer be required for other deviations from the GRS. GAO approval will also not be required for records schedules that dispose of program records less than three years old. GAO has concurred with this change.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

The Federal Records Act at 44 U.S.C. 3309 requires Government Accountability Office approval in situations where an agency seeks to dispose of records pertaining to claims and demands by or against the Government of the United States or to accounts in which the Government of the United States is concerned. NARA regulations have expanded the statutory requirement to require approval in two situations. First, agencies require GAO approval to dispose of agency program records that are less than three years old. Second, GAO approval is needed before an agency disposes of records in any way that deviates from what is provided in former General Records Schedule (GRS) 2-10. GRS 2-10 has been superseded by GRS 1.1, Financial Management and Reporting Records.

Practically, the current regulatory requirement to obtain GAO approval before the disposal of certain records means that agencies must seek GAO approval of numerous records schedules unrelated to GAO's mission. The required approval by GAO has created an additional burden on agencies requesting approval of these proposed records schedules and delays NARA's evaluation and approval processes.

NARA and GAO agree that the review required by this regulation is no longer necessary or appropriate. GAO review of records disposals under this regulation was originally established to support GAO authority under 44 U.S.C. 3309, which provides that records related to claims and demands by or against the U.S. Government cannot be disposed of by the agency head unless they have been settled and adjusted by GAO. However, the General Accounting Office Act of 1996 and the Legislative Branch Appropriations Act of 1996 transferred the authority to settle accounts to the Executive Branch. However, GAO retained the authority to relieve accountable officers from their liability under 31 U.S.C. 3527. Therefore, NARA is amending its records management regulation to only require GAO approval of records schedules that would provide retention periods for records of accountable officers that are shorter than what is authorized in the GRS.

Regulatory Analysis

Executive Order 12866, Regulatory Planning and Review, and Executive Order 13563 Improving Regulation and Regulation Review

OMB has reviewed this rulemaking and determined it is not "significant" under section 3(f) of Executive Order 12866. It is not significant because it applies only to Federal agencies, updates the regulations due to a statutory requirement (to incorporate technological developments and to account for changing technology and agency practices), and is not establishing a new program. Although the proposed revisions change existing requirements and add new ones for agencies, the requirements are necessary to keep the existing regulations up-to-date, comply with the statute, and ensure agencies are preserving records for the United States.

Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. 601, et seq.)

This review requires an agency to prepare an initial regulatory flexibility analysis and publish it alongside the proposed rule. This requirement does not apply if the agency certifies that the rulemaking will not, if promulgated, have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities (5 U.S.C. 603). NARA certifies, after review and analysis, that this rulemaking will not have a significant adverse economic impact on small entities.

Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (44 U.S.C. 3501, et seq.)

The Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA) (44 U.S.C. 3501, et seq.) requires that agencies consider the impact of paperwork and other information collection burdens imposed on the public and, under the provisions of PRA section 3507(d), obtain approval from OMB for each collection of information they conduct, sponsor, or require through regulations. This rulemaking does not impose additional information collection requirements on the public that are subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act.
