Abstract of Information Available

Based on the information available, human remains representing at least 14 individuals have been reasonably identified. The 30 associated funerary objects are one olivella shell, 19 faunal bone fragments, three charcoal pieces, one clam shell fragment, three oyster shell fragments, one mussel fragment, one crab shell fragment, and one unmodified stone. In 1982, human remains were found "in collection", wrapped in a Los Angeles Examiner newspaper dated September 4th, 1933, and a paper bag with "Carpinteria" written across it with no associated object number. Mishopshnow (CA-SBa-7) is a Chumash village and cemetery site that dates to the Late Period (A.D. 1100 to contact) that is located in the city of Carpinteria. It is unknown how or when the human remains (17.C.71) came to the Southwest Museum (now part of the Autry Museum).

Cultural Affiliation

Based on the information available and the results of consultation, cultural affiliation is reasonably identified by the geographical location or acquisition history of the human remains and associated funerary objects described in this notice.

The Autry Museum of the American West jointly with California Department of Parks and Recreation has determined that:

- The human remains described in this notice represent the physical remains of 14 individuals of Native American ancestry.

- There is a reasonable connection between the human remains and associated funerary objects described in this notice and the Santa Ynez Band of
