SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft document entitled “Recommendations for the Development of Blood Collection, Processing, and Storage Systems for the Manufacture of Blood Components Using the Buffy Coat Method.” This guidance provides recommendations on the development of blood collection, processing, and storage systems (e.g., blood bags with anticoagulant and additive solutions, empty bags for platelet pooling) used for the manufacture of blood and blood components intended for transfusion using the BC method. This guidance is intended for manufacturers of blood collection, processing, and storage systems.

Blood and blood components must be prepared in a manner consistent with the instructions provided by the manufacturer (21 CFR 606.65(e)), including the directions provided in the instructions for use of the approved or cleared collection, processing, and storage system. To prepare blood components using the BC method, blood establishments must use blood collection, processing and storage systems approved or cleared for such use. However, blood collection, processing, and storage systems currently marketed in the United States are only approved or cleared for the preparation of blood components from Whole Blood (WB) using the platelet rich plasma method, and none are yet approved or cleared for the preparation of blood components using the BC method.

This guidance provides recommendations to manufacturers who wish to obtain FDA approval or clearance to market blood collection, processing, and storage systems intended for the manufacture of blood components using the BC method. With the availability of such systems, blood establishments in the United States would have the option of manufacturing WB-derived blood components using the BC method.

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA’s good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on “Recommendations for the Development of Blood Collection, Processing, and Storage Systems for the Manufacture of Blood Components Using the Buffy Coat Method.” It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

FDA tentatively concludes that this draft guidance contains no collection of information. Therefore, clearance by the Office of Management and Budget under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 is not required.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a guidance for industry entitled “Review of Drug Master Files in Advance of Certain ANDA Submissions Under GDUFA.” As described in the GDUFA III commitment letter,<sup>1</sup> FDA has agreed to performance goals and program enhancements regarding aspects of the generic drug assessment program that build on previous authorizations of GDUFA. These enhancements to the program are designed to maximize the efficiency and utility of each assessment cycle, with the intent of reducing the number of assessment cycles for ANDAs and facilitating timely access to generic medicines for American patients. One of the enhancements included in the GDUFA III commitment letter is a mechanism to enable assessment of DMFs in advance of certain ANDA and PAS submissions.

Historically, Type II active pharmaceutical ingredient DMFs have posed a challenge for ANDA applicants because a DMF holder’s response time to Agency questions typically limits the likelihood that the DMF will be found adequate in one ANDA assessment cycle, often precluding approval of the ANDA in one assessment cycle. The program enhancement of early assessment of certain Type II DMFs should facilitate more DMFs to be found adequate in one assessment cycle, thereby potentially promoting additional ANDA approvals in one assessment cycle.

The purpose of this guidance is to provide information and recommendations on the early assessment of DMFs 6 months prior to the submission of certain ANDAs or PASs. It describes the process outlined in the GDUFA III commitment letter in greater detail and provides recommendations on how to provide the relevant information to FDA.

This guidance finalizes the draft guidance of the same title issued on October 6, 2022 (87 FR 60686). FDA considered comments received on the draft guidance as the guidance was finalized, and in response a footnote was added to clarify the potential impact of unsolicited amendments submitted after the prior assessment is granted.

This guidance is being issued consistent with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The guidance represents the current thinking of FDA on "Review of Drug Master Files in Advance of Certain ANDA Submissions Under GDUFA." It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

While this final guidance contains no collection of information, it does refer to previously approved FDA collections of information. The previously approved collections of information are subject to review by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995 (PRA) (44 U.S.C. 3501–3521). The collections of information in 21 CFR 314 have been approved under OMB control number 0910–0001.
