I. Background

FDA is announcing the availability of a draft guidance for industry entitled “Developing Drugs for Optical Imaging.” The purpose of this guidance is to provide recommendations to sponsors regarding clinical trial design features that support development and approval of optical imaging drugs that are used in conjunction with imaging devices and intended as intraoperative aids for detection of pathology such as tumors or to enhance the conspicuity of normal anatomical structures.

This draft guidance is necessary because of the burgeoning interest in the development of novel optical imaging drugs and imaging devices to assist standard surgical procedures in a variety of clinical contexts. Surgeons use these imaging drugs with imaging devices during surgery to assist the standard of care direct visual inspection and palpation of tissue in the surgical field. The imaging drugs, for example, enhance the ability of the surgeon to distinguish tumors from normal tissue. Therefore, the drugs can increase the likelihood of a safe and complete removal of cancers and can minimize the risk of unintended injury to normal anatomical structures. The use of minimally invasive surgical approaches is a contributing factor driving the development of optical imaging products because of the loss of touch perception and more limited field of view with these procedures. For instance, the development of molecularly targeted fluorescent optical drugs aims to facilitate a surgeon's ability to identify the margins of primary tumors and contiguous tumor lesions to achieve a surgical cure.

This draft guidance is being issued consistent with FDA's good guidance practices regulation (21 CFR 10.115). The draft guidance, when finalized, will represent the current thinking of FDA on "Developing Drugs for Optical Imaging." It does not establish any rights for any person and is not binding on FDA or the public. You can use an alternative approach if it satisfies the requirements of the applicable statutes and regulations.

II. Paperwork Reduction Act of 1995

While this guidance contains no collection of information, it does refer to previously approved FDA collections of information. Yong Sheng Jiao; Denial of Hearing; Final Debarment Order

AGENCY: Food and Drug Administration, HHS.

ACTION: Notice.

SUMMARY: The Food and Drug Administration (FDA or Agency) is denying a request for a hearing submitted by Yong Sheng Jiao, also known as Yongsheng Jiao and Wilson Jiao (Jiao), and is issuing an order under the Federal Food, Drug, and Cosmetic Act (FD&C Act) debaring Jiao for 5 years from importing or offering for import any drug into the United States. FDA bases this order on a finding that Jiao was convicted of a felony under Federal law for conduct relating to the importation into the United States of any drug or controlled substance under the FD&C Act. In determining the appropriateness and period of Jiao's debarment, FDA considered the relevant factors listed in the FD&C Act.
