SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

Background

On July 24, 2023, the FAA published a proposed rule titled “Modernization of Special Airworthiness Certification”

(MOSAIC) in the Federal Register to amend regulations for the manufacture, certification, operation, maintenance, and alteration of light-sport category aircraft, and other amendments (88 FR 47650, Docket No. FAA–2023–1377).

The Draft Programmatic Environmental Assessment (PEA) analyzes and discloses the potential environmental impacts associated with implementation of the MOSAIC rule, pursuant to the National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA). A categorical exclusion was applied to FAA’s action to issue the proposed rule and provide notice in the Federal Register (88 FR 47722).

The MOSAIC rule would establish requirements for aircraft, other than unmanned aircraft, that hold special airworthiness certificates, airmen that operate and maintain those aircraft, and supporting rules. The rule would enable the FAA to certificate light-sport category aircraft, sport pilots, and light-sport repairmen at the appropriate level of rigor and privilege. The rule aims to increase the availability of safe, modern, and affordable aircraft for recreational aviation, flight training, and certain aerial work.

Under the proposed action, manufacturers of light-sport aircraft may design and manufacture a broader array of aircraft including additional classes of aircraft such as rotorcraft and powered-lift, and aircraft with increased seating, without weight limits, higher speeds, new types of propulsion systems, new propeller types, retractable landing gear, and aircraft with simplified flight controls. Sport pilot privileges would be expanded to include a broader array of aircraft and add new privileges. New privileges for sport pilots would include operating helicopters, operating at night, operating aircraft with retractable landing gear, operating aircraft with constant speed propellers, and operating high-performance airplanes. These new privileges would be available via training and endorsements. Repairman (light-sport) certificate privileges also would be expanded to allow work on all aircraft in the expanded categories of light-sport aircraft.

The proposed action would revise operating limitations for restricted category aircraft, experimental aircraft, and light-sport category aircraft. The rule would also codify a Congressional mandate to enable certain aircraft with an experimental airworthiness certificate to operate commercially as space support vehicles without an air carrier certificate or exemption. The rule would establish a new purpose for issuance of an experimental
